Caira backs override to finance Boutwell

by Jeff Nazzaro

Supporters of a Proposition 2 1/2 override to fund the reopening of the Boutwell Elementary School received a strong and much welcomed backing from Town Manager Michael Caira as he presented his preliminary budget to the Town of Wilmington at Monday night's board of selectmen meeting.

"I would like to thank the town manager for his support of the override," School Committee Vice Chairman Paul Palizzolo, who two weeks ago presented to selectmen on the merits of an override to finance the estimated $575,000 Boutwell project.

The town manager, in a report given at the selectmen's meeting, stated "that the adoption of an operational override of Proposition 2 1/2 for the singular purpose of operating and maintaining the Boutwell Street School...would be in the community's best interest."

Although the school committee still must vote to pursue an override, and the board of selectmen must then vote to place the measure on a town-wide ballot, both actions are considered impending formalities.

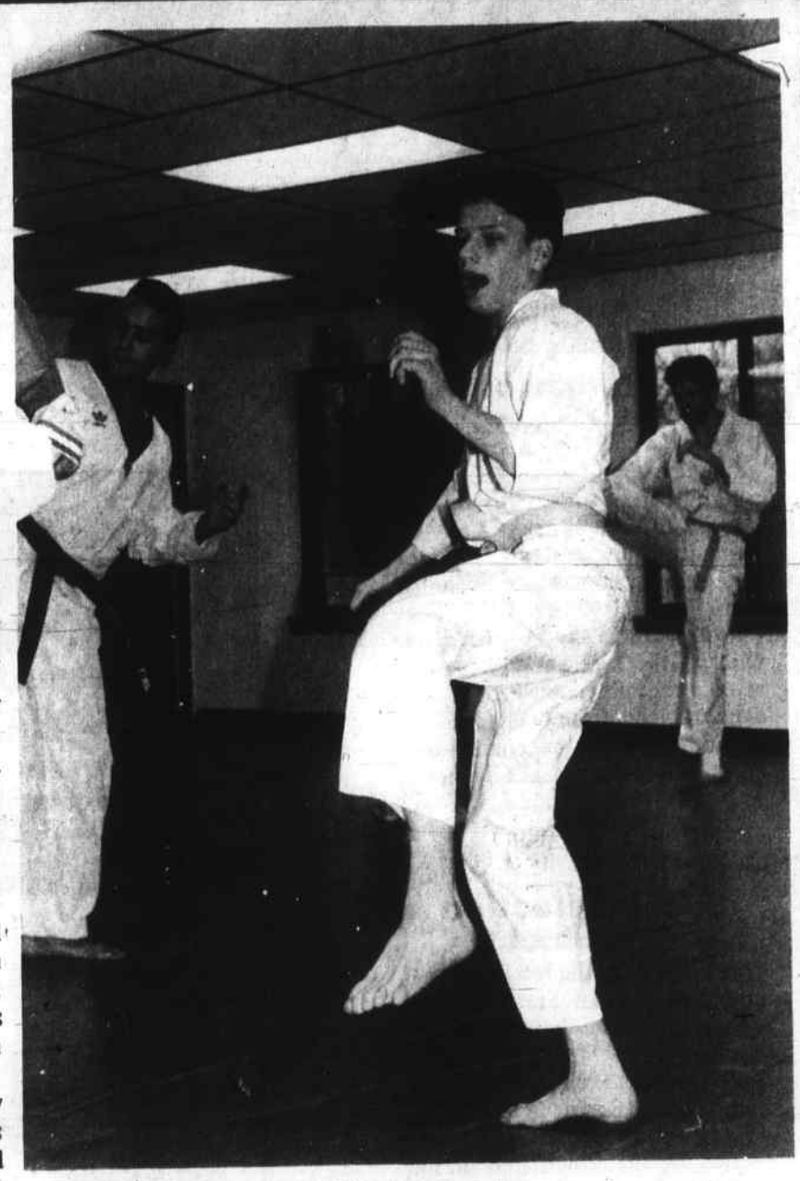

In outlining the projected taxpayer costs attached to an override, Caira showed figures indicating an increase in property taxes on the average Wilmington home (valued at $157,000) of $42.39 per year.

Discounting "short-term solutions" which include the moving of all eighth graders to the high school, Caira said "it is in my judgement that the Wilmington School Department can better meet the needs of its present and future students through expansion of classroom space."

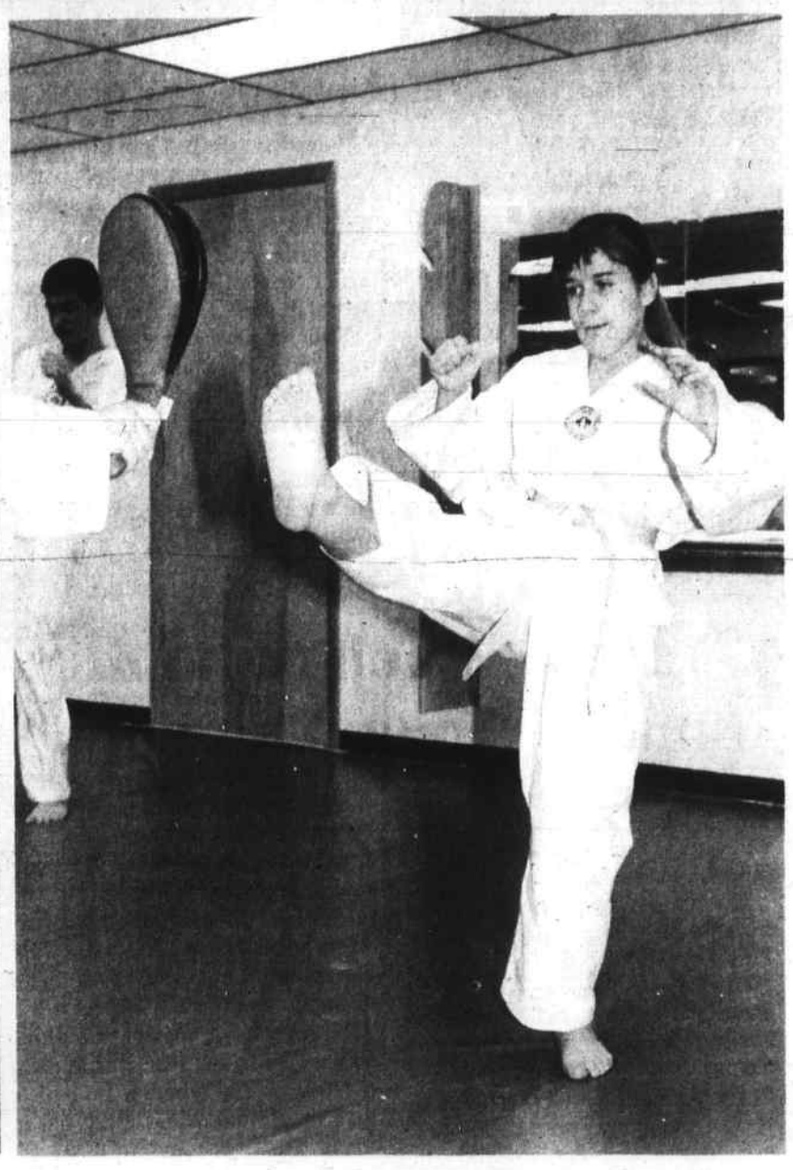

Caira further stated that the best way to meet space needs and maintain the quality of the school system is through additional funding for the reopening of the Boutwell Street School.

The manager's budget proposal was met with commendation from the newly-formed political action committee calling themselves Advocates for Children Education (ACE).

In a statement endorsed by advocates Carol Neville, Agnes Fiumara, Barbara Berry and Maureen Taylor, ACE stated that "[Caira's] public support of this override is another small step in our goal of winning a Proposition 2 1/2 override."

Roger Hayden, Wilmington Rotary, was last week ordered to tell a funny story in 25 words or less. Finemaster Rod Kurtz is shown, behind Roger, counting the words. The story was funny, but took 85 words, and Roger had to pay up.

Residents concerned over group home

by Jeff Nazzaro

Four patients from the J.T. Berry Rehabilitation Center will be moving into a group home on Crescent Street in Wilmington. This action worries neighboring residents, Selectman Gerald Duggan said Monday night.

"It is very scary for the neighborhood...and there's nothing we can do about it," Duggan stated.

The Town Crier two weeks ago received an anonymous phone call from a Crescent Street resident who said she had also begun calling several of her neighbors, Town Manager Michael Caira, State Rep. James Miceli and Selectman Gerald Duggan with her concerns that four alleged child molesters were to be moved into two separate group homes on Crescent Street.

Caira said that the Massachusetts Department of Mental Retardation official Debra Grzywacz indicated to him that such rumors were untrue. Grzywacz is on vacation and could not be reached for confirmation of that statement Tuesday night.

Caira did confirm last week that one home, which will be staffed on a 24-hour basis, has been approved by the town. Rumors regarding the nature of those who will live there stem from "somebody reacting to the unknown; the fear of the unknown," said Caira.

Rep. Miceli recognizes that mentally disabled persons have a legal right to such housing, but also sympathizes with residents' concerns over the prospect of having two such group homes in their neighborhood.

In a similar situation in Tewksbury, Miceli helped alleviate concerns of Catamount Road residents by ensuring a home in that neighborhood was not occupied by mentally ill patients.

"Once again," Miceli said however, "I don't want it misconstrued that I am opposed to housing for the mentally ill."

Caira took a more direct approach.

The mentally ill "have a right to fair and appropriate housing and that's what this is about," he stated.

Lisa and Mark Esposito opened their new carpet store, Esposito's Carpet at 332 Lowell Street, with a grand opening last Thursday night.

School committee endorses Strategic Plan

The Wilmington School Committee, at its regular meeting on August 10, voted unanimously to endorse a proposal to begin the development of a five year Strategic Plan. The strategic planning process is a discipline that will direct the school system through proactive leadership, community involvement, and coordination of efforts and activities toward specific, desired results.

The process began with a series of informational meetings with various constituencies in the school system and community to recruit a 25 member Strategic Planning Team of teaches, students, administrators, parents, School Committee members, and other community members. This Planning Team participated in a three day retreat at the Tage Inn in Andover earlier this month, to develop a draft plan of a mission statement, beliefs, objectives, and strategies. The retreat was facilitated by consultants from Education and Management Consultants, an affiliate of Boston Partners in Education, Inc.

The Strategic Plan will be presented to the Wilmington School Committee at its next regularly scheduled meeting on January 26. After their approval of the draft plan, Action Teams will be formed to develop the Action Plan for each strategy. Broad based constituency representatives will be recruited to participate on the Action Teams.

Selectmen favor regional center

by Jeff Nazzaro

In an effort to alleviate employment cuts within the reeling military-dependent industry of the region, the Wilmington Board of Selectmen Monday endorsed a proposal drafted by Town of Burlington Planning Director Terry S. Szold and presented to selectmen by Wilmington Planning Director Lynn Duncan for the creation of a regional Center for Economic Development.

The proposal, which asks for matching contributions of $2,000 from each of the four communities - Wilmington, Burlington, Bedford and Woburn (referred to as the "service area") - states that "a local/regional agency is desperately needed to help the [four] communities."

"The Center," the proposal continues," would be created within the North Suburban Chamber of Commerce office to help foster economic development consistent with the goals of local community plans, and with the goals of the NSCC."

The center, which is estimated to require $50,000 - $60,000 for operational expenses, would be funded "as a model proposal by the State Executive Office of Economic Affairs (EOEA)," with the aforementioned matching contributions as well as "private sector contributions," according to the proposal.

The proposed center will look to aid existing businesses in expansion and growth and also to "market the service area communities to businesses which may be considering a location within the service area."

The Wilmington Board of Selectmen voted unanimously to allocate the $2,000 matching contribution, which Town Manager Michael Caira said would hopefully come out of budgetary savings available in April.

Barring that, Caira said he would ask the finance committee for the funds out of that committee's $70,000 reserve.

"I think it's going to work in all directions," added Selectman Michael McCoy, "...because that's what we want to do, create jobs."

Caira unveils preliminary budget

by Jeff Nazzaro

Town Manager Michael A. Caira unveiled his preliminary budget proposal to members of the board of selectmen and finance committee Monday night to unanimous approval.

The budget, which includes a $1.1 million tax levy increase under the guidelines of Proposition 2 1/2 and a 1.25 percent increase in local receipts for fiscal year 1995, also contains strong support from the town manager for a 2 1/2 override to fund the reopening of the Boutwell Elementary School.

In addition, Caira's proposed budget allows for a FY 95 spending increase of $948,449 - the amount above FY 94 revenues after tax levies, local receipts, local aid, available funds and other revenues have been tallied.

A little more than half of the increased spending amount will go towards education, with Wilmington Public Schools receiving a 2.69 percent increase and the Shawsheen Valley Regional Technical High School in Billerica gaining 11.25 percent from the Town of Wilmington, due to the Education Reform Act and higher levels of local enrollment.

Caira's budget must now be subjected to a series of public finance committee hearings, scheduled to begin Tuesday, January 25, before being voted on in April at Annual Town Meeting. There, residents vote on a line-item basis for or against the proposed budget.

Rep. Miceli to hold annual "Town Meetings"

Representative James Miceli will be holding his annual Town Meetings for Tewksbury and Wilmington residents.

This year's annual meetings will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 7 at the Tewksbury Town Hall Auditorium, and at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 8, at Wilmington Memorial Library Conference Room.

"I hold these meetings each year to discuss the many issues that impact my district and my constituents. Many residents come each year to exchange ideas and opinions about new legislation and local concerns," said Representative Miceli.

Miceli also holds monthly office hours in both towns. Exact dates and times are announced in this newspaper well in advance.

Representative Miceli is looking forward to seeing residents at these meetings. "Everyone is invited to give their opinion, ask questions or to just listen," concluded Miceli.

Rep. Miceli office hours

Representative James R. Miceli has announced his monthly office hours for February:

Wilmington: Monday, Feb. 14, 9:30 to 11 a.m. and 7:30 to 9 p.m. at 4A Colonial Park Mall.

Tewksbury: Tuesday, Feb. 15, 9:30 to 11 a.m. and 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the Town Hall.

Special election for Precinct 6

Attention: Wilmington Precinct 6 voters. A Special State Primary Election will be held Tuesday, February 1, 1994 at Wildwood Street School. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

This election is to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of the representative in the 21st Representative District.

Democratic candidate: Sandra J. Trainor, 35 Scotland Rd., Reading.

Republican candidate: Bradley H. Jones, Jr., 249 Park Street, No. Reading.

It's YOUR Money

BY JOYCE BRISBOIS

GIVE A DONATION, GET A RECEIPT!

Time was, a canceled check was all you needed to prove a charitable contribution. And if your check to a charity also got you theater tickets or gift certificates for shopping - well, so much the better.

Which is probably why Congress decided to get tough on donors. Starting this year, all donations of $250 or more must be supported by written receipts from the charity. If you donate property worth $250 or more, you'll get a receipt describing the property, though the charity will not put a valuation on it; the donors still get that right. (On property worth more than $5,000, the donor has always had to have an appraisal, unless the gift was easy to quantify, like securities.) Separate contributions need not be combined.

When charities offer something in return for the donation - even a coffee mug - they must tell donors of more than $75 how much the incentive gift is worth and remind the donor that his or her tax deduction for the contribution should be reduced by that amount.

We're up on the rules, to save you problems later. Come talk with the tax people at

Safe bet that pols don't write this prose

by Bill Conlon

Writing, at best, is an uncertain chore. Stringing words together like beads on a Wampum belt is a simple enough task, you'd think. Grammar, syntax and spelling is the next rung up the difficulty chain, while having the finished work make sense to a casual reader is more difficult still. Penning a work of great literature is simply impossible. Nobody can do that.

Those of us in the newspaper biz see a multitude of writing styles. They range from the classic "inverted pyramid" news story, to the flowery prose, to first-grade essays (often written by those in their 30s, but that's another story). We see it all.

The nadir of all writing, however, the worst of the worst, has to be politician's press releases. The competition is cutthroat for any reporter's job that appears in the help wanted ads, but politicians obviously don't hire them. If the news releases written by elected officials are indeed written by unemployed reporters, executions will commence on Monday at sunrise.

A news release by a political figure rarely, if ever, contains any real news. On all but the rarest of occasions, the press vultures knew the content of the announcement days, sometimes even weeks in advance. As for updates on the byzantine machinations of the Legislature, nobody really understands the system anyway, so who cares? Just what, for example, does the Committee on Bills in the Third Reading do, anyway? Couldn't they understand the bills on the first two attempts at reading them?

The only time a political figure issues a press release with serious impact is when there's an indictment coming down. Then, a flock of reporters and TV types will be swarming around for the public reading of the press release, throwing questions like barbs. That event will be taped anyway, so who needs the hard copy?

The worst part of press releases from politicians, however, is the language. Oh, mercy! If you thought sports writers tortured the King's English, you ain't seen nuthin' yet. (Sports writers get to use all the fancy verbs that we hard-news hacks never see. Never have I been able to use the verb "annihilate" in nearly 10 years of banging out the news. Of course, there aren't many annihilations, except in sports.)

Press releases from the state capital drip with flowery, glowing terms to describe the most mundane effort by our officials, and it's stupefyingly obvious but the politicians who send us these written lulus are always portrayed as heroic, diligent and forthright. The way they describe what they do, however, is in need of penicillin.

For example, this one came in recently: "(Himself) has applauded the signing of a new law as a ..." Did he start slapping his hands together when the Governor signed the bill? Or in another release: "(Himself) is pleased to report that federal ..." Aww, isn't that sweet? Telling us what he did gives him pleasure. He's pleased!

And one of the recent press releases ended with (end of quote) (Himself) ended." Say what? "Ended" as the last word in a press release? In another release, the closure was "concluded (Himself)." If he merely said something, the word to use is "said." Perhaps I'm nit-picking, but doesn't the act of "saying" mean something other than "concluding"? I don't get it.

And the quotes found in press releases -- oh boy. Most legislators speak in incomplete sentences, as we all do, but some of the "direct quotes" appearing in press releases must have taken a long, long time to think through and re-write. Hour upon hour.

A recent example: "This new law will help make sure that our trips to parks and playgrounds will be a safe and relaxing retreat away from the negative contributions drugs bring to our society," (Himself) said. I've never seen (Himself) speak that many words in one sentence. Never. I'd twist in the wind for making up a quote of any length, let alone a gem like that.

In case you didn't know, part of the newspaper business is to sit down with these news releases and a blue pencil, and turn political-speak into something resembling English. What you see in the paper is not what we get.

Which politicians commit these offenses? Take your pick! And if they complain about this commentary, you'll find out.

Disapointment, outrage at Pote's comment

Dear Larz:

May I respectfully indicate my disappointment and outrage at the article written by Mr. James Pote in the Jan. 12, 1994 Town Crier in Sports Headlines. The article addressed the Tewksbury/ Wilmington girls' basketball game played at Wilmington on 1/10.94.

The article is written on a particularly unprofessional level, uses innuendoes that imply incorrectly, quotations from coaches and conference officials that are not correct and borders on a personal affront on my officiating capabilities, performance and reputation.

I will address these subjects in specific detail:

1. The length of time and number of fouls called in a ball game has nothing to do with the level of officiating. This is established by the capabilities, experience and performance of the players.

2. Innuendoes are used to indicate that both coaches were not very happy with the officiating. This is interesting, and obviously only the sports writer's opinion, due to the fact that he interviewed both coaches after the game and neither coach would comment on the officiating. In fact, when asked pointed questions regarding the officiating, both coaches refused comments.

3. I find it difficult to accept criticism regarding "who made the majority of the calls and then in the second half swallows his whistle," or which official should be making the call based on floor location. Perhaps sports writers should attend official interpretation meetings and floor-clinics before they become the critical experts.

4. Perhaps the media has the right to criticize the officiating of a particular game, but I believe it has been an unwritten law not to mention the official's names for obvious reasons. If the writer felt it was necessary to include the names of officials, why did he not name both officials? This becomes completely personal and is extremely unprofessional. particularly, when a reference is made that "these 'geezers' be put out to pasture." Incidentally my partner for this game was barely 30 years of age.

5. I am sure that the league commissioner and assigner will find it interesting that the MVC coaches are not happy about officiating and that the conference can not wait for their more experienced officials to retire.

Finally, I repeat my complete disappointment in the tone and level of this article. I could not believe that you allowed such an article to be published. A number of years ago, I wrote for the paper "Ask the Ref/Ump" articles when you were sports editor. Every word was edited by you, and rightfully so. Therefore, I conclude that you edited this article before it was printed. This is particularly disturbing, since you know personally and professionally my officiating career and the high level of my officiating. I cannot believe that you would permit and encourage an inexperienced "sports reporter": to attempt to tarnish and/or destroy an official's reputation.

I will be more than willing to discuss this matter with you and/or Mr. Pote if this would be constructive.

Yours in sport,
David W. Magee Jr.

Editor Rick Cooke responds: We all make mistakes. We all have bad nights. James Pote has every right to his opinion. The column was not meant as a personal attack on anyone.

Brad Jones a candidate for State Rep.

Dear Larz:

I take this opportunity to announce my candidacy for State Representative in the March 1 Special Election for the remainder of former Rep. Rob Krekorian's term.

This election is about who is best able to replace Rob Krekorian to represent the people of the 21st Middlesex District in the House of Representatives. As Rep. Krekorian's aide for three years I have the knowledge, ability and record of service for the citizens of this District that the next Representative must possess to be an effective, articulate advocate for the people. This election comes in the middle of the Legislative and Committee hearing process and this District needs to elect someone who does not require any on-the-job training.

I answered thousands of inquiries and letters from constituents and local officials over the course of three years. I have developed a strong understanding of the communities by working with their Legislative Delegations on local and regional issues. I worked with Senators Tisei and Buell to secure funding for Reading's new Senior Center. In North Reading I worked to get the Route 28 Reconstruction project underway and pass legislation transferring 14 acres of J.T. Berry Center land to the Town. In Wilmington, I worked with Representatives Miceli and Brenton to help secure approval for a chair lift at Deming Way.

We need a Representative who understands the effects that state mandates and regulations have on municipal budgets and local decisions. My state level experience in conjunction with my service as a selectman and former member of the Finance Committee provide me with a unique sensitivity to and appreciation of the impact that the state has on our communities.

Over the past three years I was a part of a team that pledged and delivered openness and accessibility in government. I promise to continue that record.

This election is also about issues - issues that affect the lives of each and every one of us. Governor Weld has helped turn Massachusetts around on many fronts, in part because the voters restored some two party balance in 1990. Well, the scales in the Legislature are tipping back toward one-party control and we can already see the results, an abominable redistricting plan that split Reading into two House Districts and most recently the House leadership ramming through a disgraceful campaign/ethics reform bill.

I will hold the line on taxes. Most families work well into May to pay their taxes and I think that's more than enough. State government doesn't tax too little, it still spends too much and too inefficiently. I want to work on creating programs aimed at early intervention and prevention, not maintenance and stagnation.

I will push for the restoration of the death penalty and the Governor's crime package. Regardless of your position on the death penalty it is a disgrace that the Democrat Legislature hasn't had the courage to hold a public hearing on it in three years! We need a "three time loser law," so that criminals convicted of three violent felonies spend the rest of their lives behind bars. Truth in sentencing is another necessity the public is overdue in receiving.

We must take further steps to help foster economic growth and development in Massachusetts. Programs like the capital Access Program with a track record of effectiveness should be expanded. A carefully crafted capital gains tax cut must be enacted to spur investment. An effective, comprehensive retraining program must be developed and implemented to help displaced defense and high tech workers.

The next Representative is going to have to face welfare reform. The time has come to implement some form of workfare in Massachusetts. Individual achievement should be rewarded and personal responsibility demanded.

As a lifelong resident of our district and product of its public schools I will be a strong advocate for school needs. I have taken every opportunity over the past three years to address students in our elementary, middle and high schools or at the State House when ever asked. This is a record I will proudly continue.

During the weeks ahead I look forward to meeting and talking to as many people as time and weather permit. Any one with a question or concern should feel free to contact me at 508-664-9536 or 617-944-7676.

I am confident that as you look at my record, my positions and my experience you will be favorably inclined on March 1.

Thank you,
Brad Jones

Mass. Teachers Association endorses Trainor

The Voice of Teachers for Education (VOTE), the political action committee for members of the Mass. Teachers Association, has endorsed the candidacy of Sandra Trainor of Reading, Democratic candidate for State Representative in the Twenty-First Middlesex District consisting of the towns of North Reading, Reading and Wilmington (Precinct 6).

Candidates for State Representative were interviewed extensively by teacher representatives from district towns on a variety of public education issues of importance to educators, parents and school children.

Kerry Costello, VOTE chairman, said that "Sandy Trainor understands the critical linkage between support for public education and the economy and the importance of quality education to all children for a meaningful and productive life."

Costello said that "Trainor's unequivocal opposition to Senate President William Bulger's proposed constitutional amendment permitting public tax dollars to be used for private and parochial schools was a key component in the MTA-VOTE endorsement."

Costello concluded that the "400 teachers living in the district know there are other important issues in the campaign but they wanted the voting public to know that Sandy Trainor meets our high standards for ensuring quality education for all children in our public schools."

The legislative seat for the Twenty-First Middlesex District became vacant upon the recent resignation of State Representative Robert C. Krekorian of Reading. The primary election is Tuesday, February 1, 1994 with the final election scheduled for Tuesday, March 1, 1994.

Kimberlee Hewitt to attend national conference

Kimberlee Hewitt of Wilmington has been selected to attend the National Young Leaders Conference from February 1 to 6 in Washington, D.C. The National Young Leaders Conference is a "hands on" leadership development program for outstanding high school students who have demonstrated leadership potential and scholastic merit. Kimberlee, a junior at Wilmington High School, will be among 350 students attending the conference from across America.

The theme of the National Young Leaders Conference is The Leaders of Tomorrow Meeting the Leaders of Today. Throughout the six day conference, Kimberlee will interact with key leaders and newsmakers from the three branches of the government, the media and the diplomatic corps.

Highlights of the program include welcoming remarks from a member of Congress on the floor of the House of Representatives and a panel discussion with prominent journalists at the National Press Club. Students will visit foreign embassies and receive policy briefings from senior government officials. Kimberlee may also meet with Senator Edward M. Kennedy, Senator John F. Kerry and Representative Peter Torkildsen or designated members of their staffs to discuss important issues facing Wilmington and the nation.

To complement these special meetings and briefings, Kimberlee will participate in a number of leadership skill building activities. In one activity, Foreign Policy and the President, students role play the president and members of the cabinet who must respond to an international crisis in the Balkans. Culminating the conference is the Mock Congress on National Service, in which students assume the roles of United States Representatives by debating, amending and voting on proposed service legislation.

The National Young Leaders Conference is sponsored by the Congressional Youth Leadership Council, a nonprofit, nonpartisan educational organization. Founded in 1985, the Council is committed to "fostering and inspiring young people to achieve their full leadership potential." Over 300 members of the United States Congress join this commitment as members of the Council's Honorary Congressional Board of Advisors. Each year, more than 7,000 outstanding youth nationwide participate in one of 20 sessions of the National Young Leaders Conference.

"The conference provides the opportunity for students, like Kimberlee, to distinguish themselves as tomorrow's leaders," said John Hines, Council Executive Director. "Students not only gain knowledge and experience in the nation's capital, they leave with a sense of accomplishment and an increased ability to face the challenges of the future."

Kimberlee, the daughter of Dennis and Susan Hewitt is currently ranked 41st out of a class of 167. She has done a good deal of community service at Bread and Rose's and through her involvement at St. Dorothy's Church where she teaches C.C.D. She has worked as a hospital aide at St. John's Hospital, Lowell and has volunteered to assist at the Special Olympics through R.A.R.A. in Lowell.

While maintaining honor roll grade levels, she is also in the Medical Careers Club and on the varsity tennis team.

Your municipal bond is called for retirement: Here's what you need to know

by Don Sommese

Are you unsure about whether your municipal bond holdings will be called or pre-refunded in the near future? Now is an excellent time for investors to check the municipal bonds they may have put away for safe keeping. Municipal bond calls and retirements continue to set new records. It is anticipated that, from 1994 through 1996, over $175 billion in municipal securities will be pre-refunded or retired.

Why are so many municipal bonds being called and retired? Bonds that were issued in the early to mid 1980's with higher coupons are reaching and surpassing their first permitted call date, which usually occurs 10 years after issuance. Issuers are calling and redeeming those bonds to take advantage of today's lower interest rates. This trend, which began in 1991, is expected to continue through 1996, unless interest rates rise more dramatically.

To help you understand the ramifications of municipal bond calls and retirements, consider the following:

Q. What do the terms matured, called and pre-refunded mean?

A. The maturity date is the pre-set date at which the bond will have reached its full term, and at which the investor receives the "full fact value" of the bond.

When municipal bonds are called, the issuer has the option to retire all or a portion of the bonds before the stated maturity date at a set price, which is usually at a premium to par. The call provisions are described in the official statement of bond description.

Pre-refunded bonds are created when issues bring new debt to market at lower interest rates for the purpose of replacing outstanding debt carrying higher interest rates. These bonds are usually secured by an escrow fund of U.S. Government obligations and carry an AAA rating.

Q. How do I know if or when a bond could be called?

A. Sometimes redemption notices are printed in The Wall Street Journal or The Bond Buyer. However, you can check with your financial advisor to determine whether any of your bonds are about to be retired. he or she can suggest appropriate replacements in which to reinvest the proceeds, in line with your stated investment objectives.

Q. Why are municipal bonds considered attractive?

A. With higher federal taxes, many investors are drawn to municipal bonds for their tax free income. The top marginal tax rate is 36 percent for individual taxpayers reporting annual taxable income of at least $115,000, and for joint taxpayers showing taxable income of at least $140,000. All filers with $250,000 of annual taxable income are now taxed at a 39.5 percent marginal rate. (Before you invest, a municipal bond's rating should be taken into consideration.)

Q. Under a number of tax brackets, what are the taxable equivalent yield advantages?

"Everything From The Ground Up"

Carroll Real Estate Services is more than just a real estate office, it's a total home specialist. In addition to qualified home appraisals and sales, the firm also offers home maintenance programs, landscaping, snowplowing, and all phases of residential construction. Carroll provides homeowners with affordable alternatives for "everything from the ground up!"

Local real estate brokers since 1977, Carroll Real Estate Services holds state certification as a residential real estate appraiser and as a notary public. The firm is also a state licensed construction specialist, with additional certification in lead paint abatement. "We have the equipment, expertise, and contacts to serve today's busy homeowner with anything from simple home maintenance programs, through remodeling and/or eventual sale of their home," says owner John Carroll. "We emphasize professionalism and offer personalized, affordable service. Word-of-mouth is still our best advertisement."

Carroll's offices are located at 1501 Main St., Suite 15, Tewksbury. They use the latest paging technology, mobile communications, and computer aided systems in the industry to maintain professional contact with their clients and associates. Call their "Residential Services Hotline" at 851-4851, if you're contemplating selling, improving, or need periodic home/lawn mainenance.

One of Carroll's clients from Billerica says it best, "A single call for total home service... We like that!"

Tewksbury Funeral Home • 1 Dewey St • Tewksbury • 851-2061

The Tewksbury Funeral Home was founded in 1956 by Walter J. Deputat and his wife Gloria A. (Roux) Deputat. Together, they transformed this Victorian style single family residence, dating from 1895 to its current form. The name was given for the Town, rather than for the family name, primarily to indicate the desire to serve the entire population, rather than a particular ethnic or religious segment of the community.

Walter and Gloria entered into semi-retirement in 1984, when they passed ownership to their youngest son, Joel. Since that time Walter and Gloria have divided the year between Tewksbury, Florida and New Hampshire. Joel has continued in the tradition established by his father of personal service within the community, while continuing to upgrade the facilities.

The focus of the funeral home is to provide a complete range of funeral service. "The focus of our service is the bereaved, rather than the deceased," says Joel. This explains the warm, home like appearance within the funeral home. Contrast this with a typical funeral parlor with its rows of chairs arranged to face toward the deceased. "Our arrangement is much more conducive to the healing process, which is, before all else, our primary concern."

In response to a growing demand by today's population, the funeral services offered have expanded into pre-planning of funeral services. With the ability to "customize" a package to fit a particular need, and the addition of membership into the "Forethought" Group, the Tewksbury Funeral Home continues to offer the best value available to today's consumer.

Personalized service, beautiful building, central location, and staff experience are but a few reasons why more people choose the Tewksbury Funeral Home in their hour of need.

Albert J. Deprez, resident for 20 years

Albert J. Deprez, a resident of Wilmington for 20 years, died suddenly January 18, 1994, while shoveling snow at his late residence.

Born in New Bedford, 57 years ago, Mr. Deprez had previously lived in Haverhill.

Mr. Deprez was a chemical engineer with Raytheon Co. of West Andover, having retired three years ago. He was very active in the Boy Scouts of America, a tireless leader working in service to the youth of the Greater Lowell community and was a 25 year veteran of the Greater Lowell Council, Boy Scouts of America.

He held many Scouting honors among which was the Silver Beaver,the highest honor granted in a local Council. He also served as a camp staff member of Wah-Tut-Ca Scout reservation and Cub day camp. For 10 years he ran monthly round table meetings to help Scoutmasters improve their programs for youth.

Mr. Deprez also gave over 15 years of tremendous service to the Merrimack Valley Chapter Red Cross. He was both a CPR and first aid instructor and instructor trainer. He had a strong interest in helping special needs children and worked on the staff of the Special Olympics and Exceptional Children's Week at Camp Fatima. He was a member of Access is Mandatory (AIM), a group that helps provide special needs services.

Mr. Deprez is survived by his wife Bertha (Gouveia) Deprez, a daughter Christine Deprez of Wilmington and a son Steven of Billerica; a brother Victor Deprez of Maine and several nieces and nephews.

A funeral mass was celebrated on Saturday, Jan. 22 at St. Thomas Church. Active pallbearers for Mr. Deprez were Craig Ryder, Mark Juholo, Jamie Scemorlis, Dan Farrell, Chris Eckelkamp, Curtis Eckelkamp, Scott Sughrue, Keith Garvey. Honorary pallbearers included Jack Keefe, Tony Bacchi, Harold Stevens, Robert Arena, Ray Scott, Keith Price, Buddy Whittle and Bob Daley. The euology was given by Brian Lobao, all personal friends of Mr. Deprez in Scouting. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were under the direction of the Nichols Funeral Home.

Phyllis (Downs) Hagan, formerly of Wilmington

Phyllis (Downs) Hagan, 33, of Dover, Delaware, formerly of Wilmington died Tuesday, January 25, 1994 in Dover.

Born in Winchester April 4, 1960, she attended school in Wilmington and moved to Dover 15 years ago where she earned her G.E.D. and her certification as an emergency medical technician.

She was the wife of Joseph (Butch) Hagan; mother of Ben and Travis Downs and Jarred and Jason Hagan, all of Dover and daughter of Francis and Betty Downs of Ayotte Street, Wilmington.

Phyllis was the sister of Wilfred Downs of Lowell; Glenna Morse of Alton, N.H.; Frank Downs of West Street, Wilmington and Andrew (Mack), Downs of Pelham, N.H.

Friends may call at the Nichols Funeral Home, 187 Middlesex Avenue from 6 to 9 p.m. on Sunday. Funeral services will be held there Monday at 11 a.m. with the Rev. Grimley of Wilmington's First Baptist Church officiating. Burial will follow in the family lot, Wildwood Cemetery.

In lieu of flowers, donations made in her memory to Hospice Care, Inc., 41 Montvale Avenue, Stoneham, MA 02180. will be appreciated.

Mary Jane (Winsor) Chislett

Mary Jane (Winsor) Chislett, a resident of Wilmington since 1941, died suddenly January 25, 1994, after being stricken with a heart attack at her late residence.

Born in Newfoundland 86 years ago, Mrs. Chislett was the widow of Ralph L. Chislett and is survived by a daughter, Wanece L. Chislett of Wilmington and cousins in Canada.

Mrs. Chislett was employed as a cashier for a number of local stores before her retirement.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 11 a.m., preceded by visitation from 10 to 11 a.m. at the Nichols Funeral Home, 187 Middlesex Avenue, (Rte. 62), Wilmington, with the Rev. Dr. Michael Stotts officiating. Burial will follow in Wildwood Cemetery.

Shawsheen Tech notes

Shawsheen Tech has received a grant for $48,766 from the cigarette tax, to be used in a comprehensive health education program. Although many schools that received grants hired one health coordinator to plan and implement in-school programs, Shawsheen is implementing its program a little differently, said Dean of Students John Bowen. The Shawsheen program features multiple planners and instructors and programs take place outside school hours.

"We wanted to involve many people both in school and in the community," he said. Having more people planning and teaching can lead to "positive peer pressure," he said. "We believe our program has a number of innovative aspects." Bowen is the coordinator, but his role is part time and after school and he is not the only faculty member involved.

In the fall, after the grant was awarded, Shawsheen hosted representatives from the American Cancer Society (ACS) who trained six teachers to lead sessions of the Challenge Program, the smoking cessation vehicle for teenagers. ACS returned earlier this month to instruct two Shawsheen staff members in the "Fresh Start" adult smoking cessation program.

As a result, next week Shawsheen support services teacher Nancy Simm will lead a student group in the first of five sessions of Challenge, offered after school and in small groups of fewer than 10. Students were culled from both interest and discipline lists,i.e., those called in to Bowen's office for smoking violations as well as those who simply said they wanted to stop smoking. "Down the road, we want to involve parents, too," said Bowen, noting that students who want to stop smoking can do so more easily in a supportive atmosphere, where other members do not smoke, or are trying to stop.

Fresh Start also begins next week, led by Joan Belson, a Health Technology teacher at Shawsheen, an experienced smoking cessation class instructor, and former two pack a day cigarette smoker. Faculty and staff will learn why they smoke and through a behavior modification and education program, how to stop.

Bowling, swimming etc.

Healthy alternatives to smoking are incorporated in the Tech program too. Guidance Counselor Paul Cecchini takes a group of students bowling on Wednesday afternoons. Bowling was chosen from a poll of students not involved in another sport. Using the school van, Cecchini takes the group to Brunswick Lanes in Burlington and returns them in time for the late sports bus home.

"Students now pay for their own bowling, but we hope that will change," said Bowen., "It is our hope that as people quit smoking or attempt to quit by giving up a pack of cigarettes, they will donate that money and give a 'scholarship' to a bowler." Bowlers now pay $3.75 for each day of bowling.

Beginning in February, students, parents, and Shawsheen staff and their families can join together in a "Fitness for Life" program at the school that will include an ambitious array of activities, ranging from step aerobics and weight training to swimming, volleyball, and jogging. Participants can attend weight loss and nutrition clinics, hear stress management advice from school psychologist Dr. Rob McNally, prepare for the CPR exam, or train to become a certified fitness instructor. "Fitness for Life" programs will be free, thanks to the grant.

"Our goal is to integrate faculty and staff, students and parents in wholesome, healthy activities, said Bowen. He said the center will be open three days a week, and will accommodate student, staff, and working schedules, beginning with "sunrise exercise" from 5:30 to 7 a.m. afternoon exercise from 2:45 to 4:45 and evening programs from 6:30 to 8:30.

Parents, please call

Bowen urges parents interested in "Fitness for Life" to call him at the school (508) 667-2111,ext. 147.

Parents can also check out health materials beginning in mid-February, when the school opens a parent health library in the lobby of the Adult Continuing Education area. Here visitors can peruse the health related teaching materials and videos, during the school day or evenings when night school is in session.

Some of those materials are being developed now, also as a result of the grant. Physical education teacher Shireen French is evaluating and upgrading physical education an science health program curriculum.

By mid-March, Shawsheen will begin publication of a monthly health newsletter that discusses health issues and healthy opportunities through the school.

Fuel oil – 14.9¢ per gallon

The January 30, 1969 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

Arnold Lanni, Nancy Clark, James Donahue, L. Barbara Hooper, Omer Houle and Joseph Paglia were candidates for school committee. Simon Cutter and John Callan were competing for the position of moderator; Eugene Kritter sought a seat on the Tech School Committee and Richard Thackery was a candidate for the redevelopment authority.

The Board of Selectmen voted that the 1968 town report would be dedicated to Selectman (for 33 years) Charles Black and that his picture would adorn the cover.

Selectmen were told by representatives of the MBTA that renewal of the Lowell -Wilmington bus service by the MBTA was not very likely.

Nosey Nancy gave Howie LeFave a pat on the back for his work in coaching Recreation Basketball.

According to Nosey Nancy, the residents of Jones Avenue were delighted with the three new streetlights in their area.

Elia's Market offered Fresh milk in a non return package, 49 cents a half gallon; overnight Pampers, 88 cents a package and haddock fillets, 88 cents a pound.

Lucci's Market advertised pork loin combination, 59 cents a pound; Maxwell House Instant Coffee, $1.19; Ajax cleanser, 14 oz can, 10 cents.

Century Fuel Oil advertised that a minimum of 150 gallons would be delivered C.O.D. at 14.9 cents a gallon.

BLOWING BLUE SMOKE

When a car begins to consume abnormally high amounts of oil and emits blue smoke from its tail pipe, the cause is likely to be worn piston rings. Worn valve stem seals may also be the cause of the problem. A closer inspection of the symptoms enables the auto technician to distinguish between the two disorders. With worn rings, the emission of blue smoke from the exhaust tends to be constant. Bad valve stem seals are likely to cause blue tail pipe smoke only upon deceleration. The presence of worn rings can also be confirmed by a "wet" compression test. This involves taking a compression test of the cylinder, then repeating the test after squirting some oil into the cylinder. If the "wet" compression is significantly higher, worn rings are indicated.

Unless you've taken a course in auto mechanics, it's a lot to expect to be able to determine for yourself whether worn piston rings or a bad valve stem is to blame for your vehicle's poor performance. Instead, have the experts at JIM'S AUTOMOTIVE SERVICE CENTER have a look under the hood. We've got 22 years of experience satisfying our customers' auto repair needs. We service all domestic and foreign makes, and we offer free transportation to the local area while your vehicle is being serviced. We've found that our customers are our best advertisement. Come see why at 2184 Main St., Rt. 38. Phone 658-2120. We're open Mon-Fri 7-5; Sat. 8-3.

HINT: Hard starting in cold weather and lack of power up hills are also symptomatic of worn piston rings.

Wilmington senior topics

Legal assistance

Wed., Feb. 2, legal assistance will be available at the Senior Center from 10 a.m. to noon. Those with a problem or who would like legal help on Social Security or SSI, Medicaid, food stamps, evictions from public or private housing, or who feel they have been financially exploited through work on their home; by a store; medical treatment through a doctor or hospital; or abused mentally or physically by a family member should bring the situation to the legal representative working for the Elder Legal Services. It will be turned over to one of the attorneys for investigation and if necessary charges will be filed.

Be careful

This winter has a while to go with more snow, ice and frigid weather to battle. Seniors should take special care when walking - wear boots, or rubbers or flat heeled shoes. Be sure to wear a hat, layers of clothing and cover hands and ears.

The temperature in the house should be at least 70 degrees. If the house is too cold, it is very easy for an older person to get hypothermia. The symptoms are the same as a stroke. A person's temperature can slip below 95 degrees unnoticed. If they are present, a doctor should be called immediately. Hypothermia can be treated if it is caught in time.

Exercise classes

Seniors who enjoy walking are advised not to do so in this weather. The Center offers several classes at the center throughout the week where exercise is available. Walking outside is dangerous in the winter. After an hour of aerobic type exercise, one feels as though they have walked their daily miles.

Dance class

If aerobic exercise does not satisfy one's exercise appetite, try joining the dance class Thursday afternoon from 1 to 2:30, or walk on the treadmills in the exercise machine room.

Valentine Day social

Signup now for the February therapeutic social scheduled for Valentines Day in the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks Hall. A chicken dinner will be served at 7 p.m.; music for dinner and dancing will be provided. A $4 non-refundable deposit will be required to help defray the cost of the evening.

Income tax preparer

Starting February 2, Joe Hughes, certified income tax preparer will be at the Senior Center Wednesdays assisting seniors with income taxes. This is a free service for Wilmington Senior Citizens. It is necessary to call the center for an appointment and to take tax forms for last year; tax package you received in the mail this year, and all pertinent information needed by Joe to help you.

Beware Phil, Sammy is on the prowl

When Pawtuxatawny Phil sticks his head out of the ground on Feb. 2, he won't be looking so much for his own shadow as for that of Sammy.

Sammy, a West Highland Terrier, has become the terror of all groundhogs in North Wilmington. This small, white "Scotty" dog who loves to sit in people's laps, has found another love -- killing woodchucks. To date, he has seven notches in his collar, so to speak.

Now about seven years old, Sammy spent his first five years in the company of another Westie, Sally. But about two years ago, the two dogs went out for a romp and Sally never returned.

Sammy was questioned about the whereabouts of his female companion, but he gave no answers.

Without Sally around the house, Sammy began to develop a personality which apparently had been repressed by Sally. He became more affectionate and demanding.

His first encounter with a groundhog came about a year and a half ago. There was a tremendous ruckus in the woods, and soon, Sammy came running into the yard, his face covered with blood. He washed his face in the swimming pool and ran back into the woods. After further ruckus, he returned with a dead groundhog.

Since then, six more groundhogs have met their demise. In one instance, Sammy had been for a ride in the car. As the car pulled into the yard, spotted a groundhog and began jumping at the window. He ran to the side yard and jumped on the groundhog, breaking its neck.

Wilmington police news

Wednesday, January 19

Patrick K. Downey, of 76 Lovell Rd., Melrose, arrested by Officers Joseph Waterhouse and Brian Tully for a motor vehicle offense.

Robert Lee White, a.k.a. Jason Anderson, arrested on the basis of three local criminal warrants and picked-up at the Middlesex Lock-up in Cambridge by Lt. Steven Larivee.

Sports Comment by James Pote

Nothing personal about this 'attack'

Two weeks ago I penned a sports comment concerning the officiating, or lack-of officiating, at the Wilmington-Tewksbury girls' varsity high school basketball game. This comment has touched a nerve with Tewksbury officials, who can't condone the fact that I criticized a referee, and even committed the cardinal sin of naming one of the referees in question.

In my comment I pointed out that in that game there was a combined 59 fouls called between the two teams, which included two technical fouls called on Tewksbury's coach Doug Anderson, his first technical fouls in three years.

Also in my comment, I mention the fact that some Merrimack Valley Conference coaches can't wait until some of these officials retire and younger officials are brought up to take the veteran officials' spots. This not to say that some of the veterans haven't been excellent officials throughout their respective careers.

What I did not mention in that comment was the fact that the other official, Jeff Blanchard, was just as bad as Dave Magee was.

If I can say that a player had a bad game, a coach is not doing a great job or even an athletic director has no clue what he is doing, then why can't I mention an official's name for the horrible job he or she is doing?

The Town Crier received two letters to the editor over my comment. One coming from Ken Meuse, an umpire-in-chief for Wilmington Little League and a basketball official over the past four years. Wow, that has a lot to do with this game, most especially since he wasn't even at this particular game to form an opinion.

His biggest complaint was not the fact that I used Dave Magee's name, but the fact that I didn't use Jeff Blanchard's name and I referred to them as "old geezers".

After talking to Meuse about his complaint, not only did I appreciate his opinion, (because everyone has a right to one) but he reminded me why I originally wrote the comment in question-to express my opinion on what I thought was lousy officiating. I did not once use the word "old", in my comment, and neither did I refer to Dave Magee or Jeff Blanchard directly as "geezers".

In Meuse's letter he says that Magee has been one of the most respected high school and college officials in Massachusetts and is one of the first officials chosen for any MIAA Tournaments.

Maybe Magee has been a great official for many years, but on that night, both he and his partner were brutal to say the least.

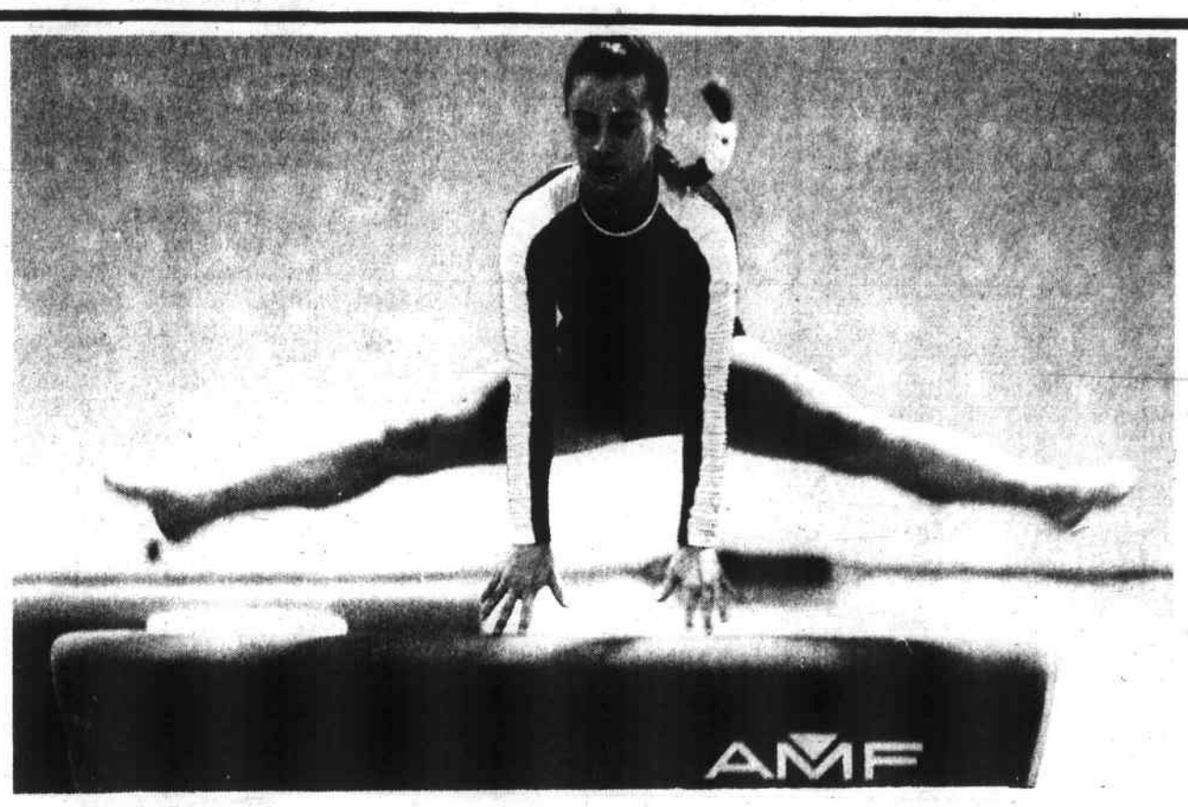

The second complaint was from Anthony Romano, the man who was in charge of assigning these two officials to that game. Both he and Meuse agreed that the combined total of 59 fouls in a game does seem like a high total.

I do agree with Romano on the point that every official can have a bad game, and maybe for Dave Magee this was just one of those nights.

After talking to Magee and having him insist that my article was "personal", and my point was to go out and slam him, then I'm thinking that maybe he might have a problem turning a deaf ear to a frustrated coach. Just another question.

As a sportswriter, I do not take it personally that a few people take offense to this recent comment and called it "awful." I take it as a sportswriter and not as a person, and so should Magee and Blanchard. There is nothing personal about forming an opinion about what occurs during an athletic event. Come on guys, get a life.

One thing that I would like to know is why after the first half of the game, which took over an hour, did the second half revert to the "normal" time frame for a high school girls' basketball game. Did one of the officials swallow his whistle during the second half because he knew the he caused complete chaos from the opening tap? Just a question.

Redmen whip young Wildcats

by James Pote

With both the Wilmington and Tewksbury High School indoor track teams ready for rebuilding seasons, the annual matchup between the two towns last week took on a different tone when the Redmen walked away victorious in both the boys' and girls, meets.

In the boys' meet the Redmen won by a score of 54-31, which included many great individual accomplishments.

Joe Callery finished first in the hurdles. In the 50 yard dash, co-captains Russ Crochetiere and Steven Hesketh took second and third respectively, while Hesketh finished first in the shotput with a distance of 40" .8'.

Also contributing were juniors Dan Clark and Rob Raposa who finished second and third respectively in the 300, while Kevin Parsons came up with one of the best individual performances in a long time at TMHS when he finished first in the 600, falling just short of the school record.

"This is his first year running. He is doing a great job," said coach Steve Levine. (assistant coach) "Bob MacDougall should get all the credit in the world. He has done a great job coaching all the runners."

Other first place finishers were John Crovo in the 1000, Kevin Andriolo, who is tearing up the league in the two mile race, Dan Clark in the high jump and the combination of Clark, Parsons, Raposa, and Crochetiere in the mile relay to beat the solid relay team of Wilmington High School.

Contributing for the Wildcats were Seugwon Kim with his personal best of 5.8 in the high jump, Eric Shaeffer's second place effort in the 1000 and Justin Yentile in the two mile race.

Teammate Greg Young was edged out in victory in the 600, while Tim Devlin and Steve Walsh put in solid efforts in the hurdles and shot put respectively.

"We're getting more points every meet. Hopefully we will continue this improvement for the rest of the year and get some wins before its over," commented WHS' head coach Bob Cripps.

As for the girls, meet, again the Redmen walked away victorious, 64-18.

Putting up solid efforts for Wilmington were Sherri Lawrence, Kerri Casella, Stacey Gillis, Denise Langone, Lynette Silva and Amanda Zaya, who also finished sixth in the 50 yard dash in the freshmen-sophomore Northern Area Meet held last Saturday which consisted of roughly 50-60 girls in competition.

Wood and her Wildcats will share memories Feb. 5

by James Pote

When she arrived in 1970 at the age of 23, little did Jan Cassidy Wood know that not only was that the only year over the next 23 that the Wilmington High School varsity field hockey team would have a winless record, but that the coach and her teams would establish a vaunted winning tradition throughout the Merrimack Valley.

Saturday, February 5 an alumni group of coach Jan Cassidy Wood's field hockey players and captains will gather to swap memories and renew friendships from the highly successful program.

For ticket information, contact Jack Cushing (657-7002) or Carole Mutchler (658-8690) or any of the former Wilmington High School captains.

Her amazing record includes 16 state tournament appearances along with 10 Merrimack Valley Conference Championships and 12 first place finishes.

She has also coached players that have gone on to colleges such as Harvard, BC, BU and Penn. Jan also coached Meghan Donnelly, who played for the 1988 Olympic field hockey team.

Most recently goalkeeper Gina Martiniello, who played exceptionally well as a goalkeeper at WHS, moved on to brilliant four year career at Providence.

"Twenty-five years (overall) of coaching is a long time. I was recently married and it was time to stay at home more," offered the varsity coach who retired after the 1992 season. "They have two excellent coaches and a lot of young and talented girls, and they will remain competitive for a long time."

The most intriguing part of her career is her record of 223-43-52, which includes a 12-2-2 record in her last year and a 14-0-2 record which was accomplished in 1988, the last year the Wildcats went undefeated.

"I have coached some really, really great kids. I always wished after each year I could see the seniors play just one more time," explained Wood, who still coaches physical education at WHS.

Her latest accomplishment was helping out present head coach Jan Urquhart, who not only is a close friend, but was Wood's assistant for 22 of those 23 years.

Wilmington High School coaching legend Jan Cassidy Wood will share memories with former Wildcats Feb. 5.

Present goalie Kerri Anderson, who led the Wildcats to another state tournament appearance this past year and was an all star in her first year of play, was first noticed by Cassidy-Wood playing street hockey in a gym class. Jan immediately told coach Urquhart that the Wildcats had another spectacular goalie in their midst.

"What I miss most is the contact with the kids. Every year it was a different group of terrific kids who loved to play. There were a lot of memories and a lot of pranks that I will never forget. It was a great 23 years," emphasized Cassidy Wood.

Jason Bere Day Feb. 8

by Jeff Nazzaro

Jason Bere, the former pizza maker turned major league pitcher, will now have his day in his native Wilmington.

The board of selectmen quickly and unanimously voted Monday night to proclaim Tuesday, February 8, Jason Bere Day in Wilmington.

Festivities for the 22-year-old Chicago White Sox hurler, who recently completed a successful rookie season that included a no-decision in the American League Championship Series against the eventual World Champion Toronto Blue Jays, will take place at Wilmington High School.

Bere pitched for WHS and then Middlesex Community College before being drafted by the White Sox. He finished the 1993 season with a 12-5 record in 24 games.

Wilmington Youth Hockey

Mite A's blank Melrose

Wilmington Mite A's 4
Melrose 0

The Wilmington Mite A Youth Hockey team increased its winning streak to six in the Dual State League.

The Wildcats struck first at 10:25 of the first period when Anthony Tomasi fed Dannny Liberty, who scored on a quick shot. The game stayed at 1-0 and Wilmington was pressing, giving up few opportunities to Melrose.

Paul Sferrazza was called on to make a good split save early in the second period. The Wildcats pressure paid off at 6:20 of the second period when Mike Rideout took the puck up the left side and connected with Tom Irwin for the goal.

Mike Rideout made it 3-1 with an assist to Anthony Tomasi at 5:05. Danny Zuccaro made a nice pass to Joseph Luciano, who beat the defense and scored to the far corner.

The Wildcats defense played strong in the third period, and when Melrose pulled the goalie, Stephen O'Dea stopped the late Melrose attack to help preserve the shutout for Paul Sferrazza.

Mite A's over Agawam

The Mite A Wildcats started very slowly in this Valley League game and were behind 1-0 at the end of the first period.

The goaltending of Paul Sferrazza kept the score at 1-0 with his quick glove and pad saves. The team started skating in the second period when Anthony Tomasi found David Velardo alone in front for the quick goal to tie the score.

Wilmington made it 2-1 when Matt Trimarchi fed Anthony Tomasi for the goal. Agawam quickly tied the game again.

Wilmington then exploded for three quick goals, Joseph Luciano assisted by Matt Trimarchi, Anthony Tomasi unassisted, and David Velardo from Anthony Tomasi.

Agawan scored again and then Wilmington continued the pressure for the rest of the game. The game ended with Anthony Tomasi registering six goals and three assists and David Velalrdo three goals and two assists.

Also playing good games were Joseph Luciano with his three goals, while teammates T.J. Dugan and Matt Porter each had one goal each.

Matt Trimarchi had three assists Stephen O'Dea and Danny Liberty one assist each.

Quad rugby championships March 22-27

The 1994 United States Quad Rugby Association (USSQRA) National Championship Tournament will be held in Boston March 22-27, at the Rockwell Cage of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The tournament features the top 12 Quad Rugby teams from across the country. Athletes participate in four days of intense competition which culminate with the crowning of a National Champion. New England Paraylzed Veterans Association (NEPVA) serves as the host organization for the tournament and will be represented in the competition by their team, the NEPVA Pitbulls.

Founded in 1987, the USQRA offers individuals with a high level disability the opportunity to play a team sport from a wheelchair level.

Quad Rugby is the quadriplegic equivalent of wheelchair basketball. The game is played on a basketball court by four member teams using a volleyball. The objective is to carry the ball across the opponent's goal line. Players stop the ball carrier by physically blocking him, which generally creates substantial physical contact.

The players are classified according to the USQRA functional classification system, and teams are balanced by limiting the number of points allowed on the court.

Although the game is not a literal adaption of able bodied rugby, the rugby name was chosen because it describes the nature of the sport and the spirit of the quad rugby players.

The USQRA 1993-94 season began in October with 50 member teams and over 600 athletes ages 13-52 competing in tournaments across the country. Of these 50 teams, 12 qualifying teams will advance to Boston for the National Championships in March.

Quad Rugby continues to be the fastest growing wheelchair sport in the world. It is recognized by the United States Olympic Committee (USOC) and is making strides toward becoming a Paralympic event.

With the 12 best Quad Rugby teams in the US coming to Boston in March, the 1994 Championships are an opportunity to showcase intense competition in an exciting up and coming sport.

All games are free of charge to spectators. The Local Organizing Committee is still soliciting sponsorship. For more information, call 617-536-2820.

Lyman to host softball hopefuls

Wilmington High School Softball Coach Paul Lyman will be hosting an informational day for girls and their parents who are interested in playing on a spring and summer softball A.S.A. traveling 12 and under team. Any girl who was born on or after Septembr 1, 1981 is eligible to play.

The information day will take place at Strike One, the indoor softball facility in Burlington Saturday, January 29, 1994 beginning at 3 p.m. and running through 5 p.m.

The first hour 3-4 will consist of a practice with the Wildcat 14 and under team. To show the level of abilities and play needed at this level.

From 4-5 will consist of questions and answer period, mingling with other kids and parents, pizza and soda for everyone and the use of the game room at Strike One.

Coach Lyman would like as many 12 and under girls to attend as possible. For more information call Coach Lyman at 658-8842 (home) or 657-5189 (work).

Special Olympians go for gold

You don't need to go all the way to Lillehammer 5, Norway to see the 1994 Olympic Games. There will be hundreds of Olympians going for the gold right here in the Berkshires of Massachustts next month.

The Massachusetts Special Olympics 15th Annual Winter Games get underway February 28 and run through March 2 at Eastover Resort in Lennox, Jiminy Peak in Hancock, Williams College in Williamstown and the Pittsfield Boys and Girls Club.

Athletes will face off in speed skating, figure skating, Alpine skiing, Nordic skiing and floor hockey.

Eastover Resort will serve as the main host, and the area will be transformed into a "Winter Wooderland" as local high school volunteers create snow sculptures a the site.

Among the other activities taking place will be presentations by Smokey the Bear, who will address forest fire prevention in honor of his 50th anniversary this year.

According to Bob McNinch, general manager of Eastover "We're really looking forward to the '94 Winter Games"!

"State wide, weather conditions this year contributed greatly to the athletes training, and we expect to see exciting events, as well as record setting times,"continued McNinch.

Opening ceremonies at Eastover kick off at 7:15 p.m. Monday, February 28, followed by competition on Tuesday from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. and again Wednesday from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. with closing ceremonies at all venues immediately following.

Massachusetts Special Olympics provides year round sports training and competition for people with mental tradition. The program offers 24 Olympic type sports to over 9,000 athletes who are assisted by approximately 800 coaches and 12,000 volunteers.

To be a part of the Winter Games volunteer team call Bev Gans at (413) 448-9600, or Bonny Colbert at (413) 499-9522 today!

Wildcats rally for win

by James Pote

The Wilmington Varsity Hockey team put its record back to an even .500 pace (4-4) overall when they lost to Haverhill 4-1 at Ristuccia Exposition Wednesday night.

Even though they outshot the Hillies 28-24, the Wildcats could not get the brakes or the bounces that Haverhill received.

Andy Pagliarulo scored the lonely goal which was assisted by juniors John Lynch and Mike Giodano while freshmen goalie Jason Dango came up with 20 saves which included some big ones in the third period.

A very busy Lake Mascuppic

by Bill Conlon

One of the busiest and therefore more important lakes in this area is Lake Mascuppic on the Tyngsboro-Dracut line. People in Tewksbury and Wilmington who grew up in the Boston 'burbs often don't know what amusements there are to the north.

I learned how to fish on the shores of Lake Mascuppic and Long Pond, less than a mile apart. Both straddle the Dracut-Tyngsboro line, and Long Pond also straddles the state border into New Hampshire, but boat access is a real pain at Long Pond, so we'll skip it for now. Maybe later?

Local anglers, however, would do well to discover Lake Mascuppic.

The lake is pretty big (209 acres), with two public boat ramps, and the fishing is good. That combination of good access and steady fishing makes Lake Mascuppic a hotspot for fishing derbies, both open water and through the ice.

On the down side, there is a problem with recreational vehicles driven by nitwit kids who love to go faster than prudence would dictate. It can be a hassle. In fact, my uncle told me he was in an ice fishing derby once and lost not one but two tipups in the same day to errant vehicles. One of the tipups was hit by a snowmobile flying past at eye-watering speeds, and the other was crushed by a car doing "doughnuts" on the ice. Dumb.

In the summer, pond townies love to rip across the lake in power boats, some of which rightfully belong on the ocean, not sweet water. I've seen such boats out on the lake at 7 a.m., loud and fast.

But if you can stand the vehicles in the recreational squadron, the fishing is steady enough to make you forget your worldly woes.

Lake Mascuppic produces a steady stream of good pickerel and panfish, and plenty of bass in the 4-to-5 pound range. But now there's more!

The state last fall stocked the lake with hundreds of baby Northern Pike and the sterile Tiger Muskie hybrid. In a few years, there are going to be monsters coming out of Mascuppic. Bank on it. The state hung ID posters around the lake to warn anglers not to confuse pike and muskie with the local pickerel.

Lake Mascuppic (sometimes called "Lakeview" because of a long-gone amusement park of that name which used to grace the Dracut shore) has had a problem with panfish over the years. Gazillions of sunfish and perch are suspected of hurting game fish populations, but I doubt it. With pike and muskie now feeding, the panfish population should taper off soon.

The center of the lake is about 25 feet deep, with a ridge in the middle rising up to six feet then dropping into the gloom. For some reason the fishing on that hump disappoints me. I always expect to see a wall-hanger in such shallow water near the edge of the abyss, but sadly, no.

Rocks provide very little hazard to navigation on Mascuppic, with most of the rocks near shore, but weeds can be a problem in the summer.

Lake Mascuppic isn't located on a numbered road, making it difficult to find. I grew up in Dracut, so I could find it in my sleep. (I have.) Getting you there might be tricky, though.

Your best bet is to take I-93 north, get off at the Route 110-113 exit for Lawrence and Methuen, then follow 110 upstream along the Merrimack River. You'll pass through Methuen, Dracut and Lowell, go past U-Mass Lowell, then turn right opposite the bridge over Pawtucket Falls, perhaps a half-mile past the college. That is Mammoth Road.

Pete McClellan of Wilmington lifts a pickerel he caught Sunday, but the fish wasn't his at all. Pete's partner, Mike O'Brien, had gone on shore to bring his car out onto the ice on Lake Mascuppic when the flag popped on one of Mike's tipups. Pete brought in the fish, then got to ride Mike for shirking his duties. (Photo by Bill Conlon)

Next, take the left opposite Stinger's Lounge, and that road will bring you directly to the lake. As you wait at the stop sign, the Dracut town ramp is dead ahead, to the left of the parking lot for the Boathouse lounge. Most ice fishing derbies hold their sign-ups at the Dracut ramp.

From that same stop sign, you can get to the Tyngsboro town ramp by turning right, and following around the shore of the lake. Take the left just past the fire house, and follow it down to the water. No access charge at either public ramp.

The next ice fishing derby on Lake Mascuppic is this Sunday. See you on the ice.

--- Tackle Box ---

On Super Bowl Sunday, from 8 to 2, the Greater Lowell Fly Fishers are having an ice fishing derby on Lake Mascuppic. Entry is $10, with cash awards for the 10 biggest bass and pickerel. I'll be there.

This past Sunday, the Merrimack Valley Bass Masters held their single (?) derby of the year on Mascuppic. (In the past, they've held up to four ice fishing derbies!) A total of 209 anglers braved sub-zero temperature to grind holes in an ice cover that was 16 inches thick. Fantastic ice pack!

First place went to Pat Germain of Haverhill with a 4.45 pound bass that was good for $300 and a trophy; Bob Phelps of Lowell took $200 and a trophy for a second-place bass that weighed in at 4.15 pounds; Mike Rinaldi of N. Andover grabbed third with a 3.7 pound pickerel; Bill Lynch of N. Andover held fourth place with a 3.63 bass; and Eric Rastauskas took fifth place with a 3.58 bass.

A deep bow and tip of the furry hat to Jim Mulligan of Wilmington, who pulled our fannies out of the fire at the MVBM derby. My ice auger was too dull to function, and cutting holes in the thick ice as a nightmare. It took an hour to cut three holes, and that's all we had when the derby started! Jim graciously let us use his new ice auger, making the chore a breeze! Jim was fishing with Team O'Brien, (Tim and Mike) with spectators Steve Fuller and Pete McClellan on hand, all Wilmington residents. Jim took a nice bass early in the day which was in third for a while, but not for long. Thanks again, Jim! See you Sunday, same place? (I'll have new blades!)

More derbies: SWEAT will cover Ames Pond on Sunday, Feb 13, 7 to 3. $10 entry. American Legion Post 159 will sponsor a derby on Forge Pond, Westford, on Saturday Feb. 5, with signups for $10 at the VFW hall.

ARE YOU PROTECTED?

by Edward H. Wilkens

ATTRACTIVE NUISANCE

QUESTION: I have a pool in my backyard but no fence around it. Would I be liable if a neighborhood child trespassed and was injured in or around the pool.

ANSWER: You, the property owner, would be held liable in such a situation -- even though you have forbidden children to be there. Your obligation rests on the concept of "attractive nuisance" which presumes that children are curious and are likely to get in trouble as a result of playing in a tempting place. You should take every precaution to prevent such danger by putting up a fence. Also, make sure you are covered by liability insurance. Don't close the barn door after the barn burns.

PREVENTING accidents is the homeowner's responsibility. Don't make danger tempting for children.

Sands, Lenihan are 'Hats Off' winners

Jessica Sands, daughter of Deborah Sands Reingold and Karen Lenihan, daughter of Mary and Robert Lenihan, have been named "Hats Off" winners by Principal William J. DeGregorio for the month of January in a recognition program sponsored jointly by the Tewksbury Rotary Club and Tewksbury Memorial High School. The awards were presented to the students at the special Rotary Club luncheon held in their honor at Holiday Inn on January 20.

Jessica T. Sands

Jessica, ranked fifth in her senior class, is president of the National Honor Society and takes part in the Peer Tutoring Program. She has served on the Student Council for the past two years and is currently vice president. During her sophomore year she was the Student Advisory Council's representative to the Mass. Regional Student advisory Council and was elected Student of the Month.

Jessica is this year's class representative to the Class Council. Her other Student Council activities included the Adopt-a-Grandparent Program in grade 10 and Historic House Tour this past year. She has also worked on the Social and Political Action Blood Drive.

Jessica has been a cheerleader for all her high school career and served as captain and was elected most valuable player in grade 10. This year she was chairperson of the Football Program/Pep Rally Committees and coached a Pop Warner cheerleading team, also in grade 10. She was a member of the drama Club in her freshman year and the International Club as a junior.

She has worked several hours a week at the Abundant Life School during her high school years and at Dandi-Lyons for the past two years where she is currently a shift leader.

Jessica is currently in Who's Who Among American High School Students and has maintained honor roll grades for all four years at TMHS. She plans to attend either Worcester Polytechnic Institute or Assumption College to major in biology/pre-medicine.

Tewksbury Rotary Club presented its "Hats Off" awards, recognizing outstanding student achievement at TMHS, to Karen Lenihan (left) and Jessica Sands at the club's January 20 luncheon at the Holiday Inn on Highwood Drive. Introducing the students to the club was guidance counsellor Libby Gaffney (right).

Karen Lenihan

Karen, ranked seventh in her senior class was elected to the National Honor Society in her junior year and currently serves as a peer tutor. During her junior year she served as secretary of the Student Council and is a scholar-athlete who maintains high honor roll grades while participating in high school sports.

She has played varsity volleyball for her four years and is now captain of that team. This year she was elected to the Merrimack Valley Conference Volleyball All Star team and was selected Most Valuable Player. She has also been recognized as an outstanding scholastic-athlete by the Tewksbury Advertiser. She has played junior varsity basketball and was elected captain during her junior year. She was also a member of the varsity tennis team in grade nine.

Karen is currently a member of DECA and is serving on the Senior Prom Committee.

She worked as a camp counselor for the Salem Athletic Club during her junior year. She plans to major in Communications/Pre-Law and is currently considering several schools.

Taking Care of Yourself

As part of Winchester Hospital's "Taking Care of Yourself Health Education Series," a special free lecture will be held on the topic of "Exercise and Fitness."

Community members who made getting in shape their New Year's resolution, won't want to miss this important lecture. Participants will learn the components of a well rounded exercise program and how to set one up at home.

This free lecture will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Winchester Hospital Breast Care Center, Baldwin Park II in Woburn. To register, call 617-756-2220.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue and in execution of the Power of Sale contained in a certain mortgage given by John M. Donigan, Jr. to The Boston Five Cents Savings Bank FSB dated December 27, 1989 recorded with the Middlesex County (Northern District) Registry of Deeds at Book 5108, Page 013 and assigned to Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency by Assignment dated March 14, 1990 recorded with said Deeds at Book 5198, Page 122, of which mortgage the undersigned is the present holder for breach of the conditions of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold at Public Auction at 10:00 A.M. on February 18, 1994 upon the mortgaged premises hereinafter described all and singular the premises described in said mortgage.

TO WIT:

The unit ("Unit") Number 62 in Building 14 (the "Building") of the Merrimack Meadows Condominium (the "Condominium"), located in Tewksbury, Massachusetts, which Condominium was created pursuant to M.G.L. Chapter 183A by the recording of a Master Deed (the "Master Deed") dated May 9th, 1989 and recorded on May 9th, 1989 with the Middlesex North District Registry of Deeds in Book 4883 Page 166, which Unit has a mailing address of: 72 Merrimack Meadow Lane, Tewksbury, MA 01876.

Said Unit contains approximately 1,808 square feet and is shown on the floor plans of the Building recorded with the Master Deed and on the floor plan attached to the unit deed recorded herewith, to which is affixed the verified statement in the form required by said Chapter 183A, Section 9.

Said Unit is hereby conveyed together with:

1. An undivided 1.200 percent (%) interest in the Common Areas and Facilities of the Condominium, as it may be amended pursuant to provisions of the Master Deed;

2. The exclusive right to use those Common Areas and Facilities appurtenant to said Unit as set forth in the Mater Deed;

3. All other rights, easements, agreements, interests and provision contained in the Master Deed, the Declaration of Trust of the Condominium recorded with said Registry of Deeds on May 9, 1989 in Book 4883, Page 200 (the "Declaration of Trust") and the Rules and Regulations adopted pursuant thereto (the "Rules and Regulations"), as any of the same may be amended from time to time pursuant to the provisions thereof.

Said unit is conveyed subject to and with the benefit of:

1. The provisions of Chapter 183A as the same may be amended from time to time;

MASC is an organization that serves school committees throughout the commonwealth.

• bonds

A. As shown in accompany table, a 20 year AA rated municipal bond with a tax exempt yield of 5.50 percent means that:

- If you are in the 31 percent bracket, you would require a taxable equivalent yield of 7.97 percent.
- For the 36 percent and 39.6 percent brackets, the taxable equivalent yields move up to 8.59 percent and 9.11 percent, respectively.

Equivalent Yields between Taxable and Tax-Exempt bonds

Tax-exempt yield 5.50%

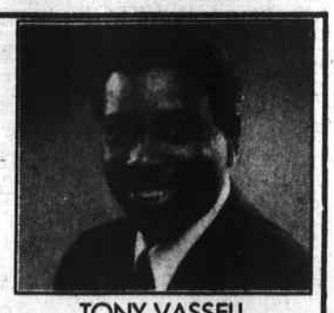

Federal Tax Equivalent Bracket	Taxable Equivalent Returns
31%	7.97%
36%	8.59%
39.6%	9.11%

Q. What are the taxable equivalent yield advantages for "double exempt" bonds (exempt from federal and state taxes)?

A. The impact of double tax exemption" increases the relevance of taxable equivalent yield calculations. For example, the taxable equivalent yield on a double exempt 5.50 percent bond for a Mass resident (12% maximum state tax rate) would equal 9.05% and 9.69% for 31% and 36% ratepayers, respectively. For 39.6% ratepayers, the taxable equivalent yield would move up to 10.35%.

If you would like additional information regarding municipal bonds, or are unsure about whether or not your bonds are coming due, please write care of Town Crier, P.O. Box 939, 104 Lowell St., Wilmington, MA 01887.

A Prayer to the Blessed Virgin
(Never found to fail)

O Most beautiful Flower of Mount Carmel, Fruitful Vine, Splendour of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in this my necessity. O Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my Mother.

O Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart, to succour me in this necessity; there are none that can withstand your power.

O, show me herein you are my Mother. O Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to Thee. (3 times)

Sweet Mother, I place this cause in your hands. (3 times)

Say for 3 consecutive days and publish.

God Bless
R.Y.

DO A DOUBLE TAKE IN MONTREAL

Savvy travelers have always marked Montreal as on of the classiest, most exciting destinations north of the border. Now there is even more reason to visit. The city underwent a major face lift in preparation for 1992's celebration of its 350th anniversary, and while the anniversary has come and gone, the newfound sparkle hasn't. Topping the list of must-sees is the refurbished Olympic Park, with a new $45 million Biodome. Billing itself as a living slice of the earth, the attraction offers a walk through four ecological zones, including a steamy rain forest inhabited by flashy tropical birds and tiny golden monkeys, and a glassy polar region peopled by penguins.

Before you visit Montreal, you will want to stop in at ALL AROUND TRAVEL where we'll tell you about our northern neighbor and how you can best make use of your time there. Questions about where to go and what to wear? We know the answers or will find out for you here at 203 Jefferson Rd., N. Wilmington (Rt. 62). Let us help you with your next travel arrangements. Whether for vacation or business travel, individual or group, call the people who care - 658-2313. We're open Mon-Fri 9-5 and after hours by appointment.

HINT: Le Vieux Port in Old Montreal has also been spruced up, with cobblestones once again paving the historic streets.

OVER 160,000 READERS EVERY WEDNESDAY IN 13 COMMUNITIES

531 MAIN STREET, READING, MA. (617 944-2200)

This state commission wants to know

What should a student know and be able to do when he or she graduates from high school?

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

"Our mission is to write a document that will pass the 7-11 test," says Reading High Principal Rena Mirkin, who is one of 40 people in the state and the only high school principal on the Massachusetts Commission on the Common Core of Learning, created as a result of the June 1993 Massachusetts Education Reform Act.

"It has to answer the question 'what should a student know and be able to do when he or she graduates from high school?' - and it has to do so without a lot of educationese or ivory tower stuff," she continues.

"If a guy comes into a 7-11 for a soda and picks up the document, he has to be able to understand what we're talking about."

According to Mirkin, the Commission on the Common Core (CCC) was established by Massachusetts Commissioner of Education Robert Antonucci and the state Board of Education to develop a very broad framework which basically boils down to that one question.

Toward that end, the Massachusetts Department of Education has produced "Voices of Reform," a 20-minute video explaining the goals of the Education Reform Act. The video which features educators, students and community members from Boston, Lawrence and Reading is being distributed through every superintendent to every school committee in the state.

Toward that end, in Reading, the high school PTA has addressed the issue and a cable call-in show is scheduled to take place this month in conjunction with the RMHS School Council. And Mirkin has gone to various informal meetings in Brookline to discuss the issue.

What should every student know and be able to do upon high school graduation?

The answer is complex.

The mission is to simplify.

"Right now, we have looked at some broad areas, such as communication, civic responsibilities, having a body of knowledge," says Mirkin. "When we went to school, it was like the head was a basket and we had to stuff it all in. Now it's more you need to access information. And yet, we can't negate the fact that there's a certain body of knowledge that educated people have in common.

"There are certain philosophies," she continues. "There are certain pieces of literature. There are certain facts and understanding that an educated citizen should have at his or her fingertips. Yet there is so much information, it's unnecessary and in fact, ludicrous to think that we need to know it all.

"Do you need to know all scientific equations? Do you need to know all historical dates? You can access that information in moments.

"What you need to know, in our opinion, is evolution of society, philosophies of being, understanding of the world.

The group, which began slowly and has been meeting since September, is about to pick up speed. It is composed of educators, citizens, and students from towns and cities, business establishments and universities throughout the state. Frank Yetter of Melrose is the other CCC member from the Middlesex East area.

"There are parents-at-large, firemen, lawyers, school committee people, three students, a couple of elementary school principals, and classroom teachers," says Mirkin. "There happens to be the 'teacher of the year,' although she was selected before she became teacher of the year. The president of the Mass. Teachers Association is on it as well Antonucci and commission co-chairs Marty Kaplan and Maddy Marquez."

READING HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPAL RENA MIRKIN is a member of the Mass. Commission on the Common Core of Learning.

The answer is do on June 21, 1994

As part of its effort to come up with a document answering the question of the common core, the group is planning intensive information and work sessions as well as regional open houses. In mid-January, the Distinguished Speakers Event held at the State House encompassed college, museum and bank presidents; columnists, media specialists and corporation chairs; artists, scientists, and a judge. The long list of speakers included Governor William Weld, Dr. John Silber, Senator William Bulger, and Dr. Lonnie Carton.

"Our objectives," says Mirkin, "are to elicit as much input as we can from people throughout the Commonwealth. People have been reaching out in many different groups on many different stratas to get input."

With articles coming out in various local publications, the CCC is just beginning its massive public outreach campaign.

ANTHONY MANCONI

Are you superstitious? Knock on wood, I'm glad I'm not! Jon Norton, a Melrose school teacher, taught me that there is no power in numbers. Jon works weekends as a part-time store clerk. I bought some items that came to exactly $13. Well, truthfully, folks, I panicked. "Wait, Jon," I said, "I have to buy something else." Jon smiled and said, "Chipper, the number 13 bothers you, doesn't it? Remember this, there is no power apart from God. Omnipotence has all power. And, to acknowledge any other power is to dishonor God." - Mary Baker Eddy.

New moms, babies, families health training program

Someone has just had a baby, and very soon after delivery -- maybe within 24 hours -- mom was home again. New mothers are being discharged sooner after delivery, and many health insurance plans stipulate that these moms receive care and support at home.

To help families adjust to daily living with a newborn in the house, the Melrose Visiting Nurse Service has developed a maternal and child health training program, and taught, tested and certified its first class of graduates.

The graduates are Pat Doucet of Melrose, Ellen Ciavarro of Lynnfield and Kate Pitre of Everett, all certified home health aides at MVNS. They will answer questions and provide a knowledgeable "ear" about issues that might concern families with new babies, from the appearance of a normal newborn to the needs of the baby and parent(s) to sibling rivalry.

Agency maternal-child health nurse Karen McLeavey, R.N., M.S.N., a certified pediatric nurse practitioner (CPNP), developed and ran the course with assistance from home health aide coordinator and Melrose resident Diane DeRoche. While they were offering the course, McLeavey received a call from another home care agency that had just received a grant to create the same kind of program.

The services of the maternal and child health aides are available with a physician's order, and covered by some health insurance plans. It's a great gift from grandparents who may themselves be overextended or live far from the "new arrival."

To further strengthen its maternal-child health services, the agency has also welcomed maternal-child health nurse Joan Hudd, R.N., B.S.N. Hudd, of Melrose, has 15 year's experience in pediatric care, most recently at New England Memorial Hospital. She is certified in Pediatric Advanced Life Support (PALS).

Melrose Visiting Nurse Service has provided health care for children -- routine immunizations and checkups -- for 70 years. The agency also provides health care at home to residents of Melrose and some 12 surrounding communities. MVNS registered nurses, physical, occupational and speech therapists, certified home health aides, social workers and a nutritionist continue to make "house calls" today.

For more information about MVNS maternal-child health programs, or home care, or to arrange to receive the services of a maternal-child health aide, call the agency (617-665-4800) weekdays between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Medically necessary services are provided 24 hours a day.

Wakefield & Reading plan 350th galas

Reading needs singers

About 130 Reading residents and friends of the community are singing up a storm, in anticipation of the patriotic concert in celebration of Reading's 350th birthday - and they're looking - make that, listening - for many, many more voices.

They offer a short-term, fun commitment with the possibility of long-term, enjoyable memories. Rehearsals begin on April 3rd, and the concert will be held at 7:30 p.m. on May 30th at Reading High.

Jane McKenzie is in charge, and in Florida at the moment. For more information, contact Ruth Converse at (617)944-9349.

350 writes in Wakefield

Wakefield's 350th writing committee has prepared the final draft for its 350th publication. Writing Committee members are Marcia Phinney, Doris DiGiammarino, Nancy Bertrand, Murray Young, John Wall, David Workman, Juliane Gerace, and Gene Moulton.

The Wakefield Chamber of Commerce is planning its annual downtown sale extravaganza on June 24th and 25th as part of the town's 350th celebration. In fact, in its quest to be part of a 350 theme, the chamber recently sponsored a "name the 1994 sidewalk bazaar - downtown celebration" contest for all Wakefield residents.

Tewksbury in for new library

The Tewksbury Board of Library Trustees is officially launching its plans for a new public library. According to Harold Patten Public Library Director Elisabeth Desmarais in the Tewksbury edition of the "Town Crier," the present library is simply too small.

Although the total cost of a new one will be about $2.5 million, the money, according to Desmarais, will come from a variety of sources, possibly from: federal funding with 10 percent from town voters; part of the $45 million slated by the state for Massachusetts libraries; and the five percent anticipated - $150,000 - from private donations.

The new library will feature 25,000 feet of floor space and could possibly be located on state-owned land, maybe the very parcel once set aside for a new police station.

Burlington goes higher tech'

The Burlington Planning Board recently voted unanimously to approve a site plan and two special permits for a high-tech' machine shop which is expanding from Wilmington into Burlington.

Getov Machine, Inc., according to its vice president Fran Hachey, creates parts for automotive, medical and semi-conductor apparatus and will accommodate about 30 employees at 78 Blanchard Rd.

In other Burlington plans, Burlington Mall officials have "agreed" to run a shuttle bus from various points in the parking lot during the next Christmas season on a trial basis, according to Burlington Planning Director Terry Szold, in the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

Old Bruins coming to Stoneham

Did we say "old"? Of course, we meant 'former,' as in the Stone Zoo's March 15th Boston Bruins Alumni Game, scheduled for 7 p.m. at the Stoneham Arena on Nancy Kerrigan Way (we wanted to jump on the media bandwagon).

The March 15th parade will include John Bucyk, Terry O'Reilly, Brad Park, Stoneham's own Frank Simonetti, and John "Pie" McKenzie plus a surprise visiting team and special half-time guests to be announced soon.

For advance tickets - $7 for adults and $5 for children, age 12 and under - write to Friends of Stone Zoo, 181 North St., Stoneham, MA 02180 or call (617)438-7459.

Volunteers are needed to help with the event and to sell tickets.

"About The Towns" covers recent events in the 13-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper for up-to-date information about your city or town. We also welcome original material - please send it to Phyllis Nissen, "About The Towns," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

Noted artist David Curtis in Reading

The Reading Art Association is pleased to present noted artist David Curtis on Wednesday, February 9th, at 8 p.m. at the First Congrega-tional Church, middle side door, Sanborn Street, Reading. The public is invited and welcomed to this demonstration. A donation of $3 is suggested for non-members.

Born in Brookline, David Curtis was introduced to painting at an early age by his painter father, Roger Curtis, and by his uncle, Howard Curtis, while a student at Gloucester High School. He grew up virtually surrounded by painters and paintings of Cape Ann. He has studied at the Massachusetts College of Art, the Boston Museum School and the VesperGeorge School of Art and has worked under R.H. Ives Gammell and Robert Douglas Hunter.

David Curtis is a member of the North Shore Arts Association, the Guild of Boston Artists and the Copley Society. He was awarded the statues of Copley Master and joined the Board of Masters of the Guild of Boston Artists in 1993.

Mr. Curtis has won numerous awards, including the Rockport Art Association New Member Prize, the A.T. Hubbard memorial Award, the Annie McCarthy Award, the American Artists Professional League Award, the Meriden Art Association Award and the Annisquam Art Center Award. he lives in Magnolia.

Canal Association winter meeting open to public

The Winter Meeting of the Middlesex Canal Association will be held on Sunday, January 30, at 1:30 p.m. at the Charlestown Navy Yard, Boston Historic National Park.

The meeting will take place in the Hull Room on the second floor of Building No. 5 near the drydock where the U.S.S. Constitution is being repaired.

The program, sponsored by the National Park Service, is a slide lecture by Theodora Lawton entitled, Recollections of the Charlestown Navy Yard 1800-1974." The Navy Yard was established nearly 200 years ago during the period when the Middlesex Canal was under construction.

The southern terminus of the canal was also in Charlestown and not far from the Navy Yard. "Teddi" Lawton will focus particularly on Loammi Baldwin II and his Drydock No. 1 contribution to the Navy Yard.

The meetings is open to the public. Please bring family and friends and stay after the meeting for refreshments and conversation.

The National Park is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., so come early and see other Navy Yard historic points of interest or after the meetings.

What should a student know? From S-1

"When we say, for example, 'communicate,' we are not just talking about 'I can write a paragraph and spell it. I can speak without tripping over my words,'" she says.

"Communication is, of course, speaking, writing, reading, technology. Should communication mean being able to understand someone in two languages? Do we say a second language?"

Communication and proficiency are already major topics of discussion among CCC members.

"When we say 'proficiency,' what level are we talking about?" asks Mirkin. "Are we talking about read, write, spell, do grammar and literature? Are we talking get yourself to a foreign country and be able to communicate in a conversational or business way with people, understand customs, traditions, and values of other societies?"

If a student should be able to communicate easily in another language when he or she graduates from high school, how can this requirement be applied to all students equally throughout the state?

The CCC is grappling with that question and several others.

"If we say a second language is key and should absolutely be a requirement," says Mirkin, "in Reading, by and large, overwhelmingly, it would be a foreign language - French, Spanish, German, Russian, Japanese, whatever. And with the financial implications and programmatic implications, do you do this at first grade if you want a kid to know it when he gets out? There's that issue."

On the other hand:

"When you talk about a city like Lowell or Lawrence, when most kids come to school, English is their second language," she continues. "So do we teach that to them and say, yes, in fact, they have two languages because they come with Laotian or Spanish or Russian?"

"So everything you say that seems fairly simple, isn't necessarily."

Another public, therefore CCC concern, says Mirkin, is that "everybody is being painted with the brush of the big city" even though every school system does not have big city problems.

"We all share concerns for the future of our students and our republic," she says, "but issues Boston may deal with, I may not. There are basic issues - safety, health, well-being, understanding, tolerance, multiculturalism, and learning, plain learning.

"These all alter relative to the community you're in. So while we need a broad framework, we have to be very aware that we're speaking to many different constituents."

The Common Core of Learning, the "agreed upon" statement describing what all students should know and be able to do, will be reported to the Massachusetts Board of Education on June 21st; and will be translated by the Department of Education over the next few years into curriculum frameworks and a new approach to statewide assessments.

Unlike previous curriculum reforms, according to the state board of education, this effort will include a strong accountability component by requiring all students to meet state standards as a condition of graduation.

Until June, however, the question remains for all to ponder: What should every student know and be able to do upon high school graduation?

Local writer publishes new book on poetry

Local writer Linda Portnay from Lexington is the author of a new book of poetry entitled, "Wishing for the Worst," recently released by Warthog Press.

Linda Portnay

Unlike many of the poetry books found in local libraries or book stores, "Wishing for the Worse" speaks to the reader of memory, loss and sorrow. Portnay's poems reflect her life as a poet, mother, Jewish community leader, world traveler and a child growing up in New York City. Her visions are informed by her passion for science, nature and the sacred.

Linda Portnay was raised in Flushing, New York. She was educated at the University of chicago and Brandeis University. Her work has appeared in publications including The Birmingham Review, Gulf Stream Magazine and Kalliope. The wife of Winchester Hospital endocrinologist Gary Portnay, M.D., she teaches creative writing at Middlesex Community College in Bedford. She has traveled to Israel, Scotland, Switzerland, Italy, the Netherlands, Lithuania and Russia.

Portnay will be signing copies of her book on Thursday, February 3rd, at 7:30 p.m. at Barnes & Noble bookstore in Burlington. She is available to speak, at no charge, to organizations or groups on the making of modern poetry, as well as give poetry readings. Call (617) 756-2114 to arrange.

Woodchips From S-1

My late Uncle John Shea was a lonely senior citizen. He would take a Windsor chair to his front lawn, then get a regular aluminum chair and sit in it. It wouldn't take long for a car to come to a screeching stop, then the driver would walk up to Uncle John and sit down in the Windsor chair. After a friendly chat the inevitable question was asked, "How much to you want for this chair? Uncle John would smile and reply, "It's not for sale." He then explained, "I get so lonely, I put out the Windsor chair on the lawn and antique collectors are sure to stop and it's the only chance I get to talk to someone."

Bob Kelley and his wife, Clare, and their ten-year-old daughter, Maureen, are my new neighbors. They came here last year from Northern Ireland. Maureen said to me today, "God must listen to the prayers of Americans real close because He has given them so much to be thankful for." I shook her hand and said, "Amen, Maureen, Amen."

When the radio and tv storm center announcers said that "There's no school for the Humpty Dumpty School" I said to Kathy, "Wow! we must be in for one heck of a big snowstorm!"... Jimmy Quinno (master chef at the Woburn Elks) said to me, "Chipper, some of those jokes I read in Woodchips are so old I heard them when I fell out of the cradle." "Holy smokes, Jimmy!" I replied. "You're not that old are you?"

An out-of-shape dog invariably has an out-of-shape owner holding on to the other end of the leash... George Guyette, Winchester philosopher, said, "Yesterday is history, tomorrow is mystery, so that leaves us today to live, love and laugh!"

Fogarty, Ruth Flynn and Lillian Hurley, all of NORTH READING; Kenneth Bonanno, Bob Vassallo, Devon Lyman, Carlyle Flash, Happy 46th Wedding Anniversary Bob and Nellie, Grace Fitzgerald, Elsa Criscitello, Josephine Pauletti, all of TEWKSBURY; Rep. Jim DiPaola, Honorable Judge John Donnelly, Joe Shelzi, Paul Evangelista, Lorie Brown and Ann Belanger, all of MALDEN; Danielle Beshong, Jessica O'Loughlin, John Maccario, Valerie Bowden, Jennifer Gray, Lorraine Miller and Margaret O'Brien, all of MELROSE; Ralph and Madeline DeMarco, Jimmy and Maria O'Brien, David Nagle, Tom and Debbie Mulligan and Eddie Costello, all of MEDFORD.

I solved the mystery at last of why I have 10 inches of snow on my driveway in a five inch snowstorm. My neighbor, Abbott Rowe, bought a brand new snowblower!... Mario DiMino of Stoneham works on the night shift. He went out to the parking lot and looked in vain for his car, so he sang this tune, "Twinkle, twinkle little star, did you see who stole my car?"

A politician ran into a newspaper office and shouted to the editor, "Everything you printed about me was lies, lies, lies!" The editor calmed him down and said, "I don't see why you have anything to be upset about. It's when I print the truth about you that you would have cause to be concerned."

Richie Hamel ran into the paymaster's office and told Tony Falco, "I'm two dollars short in my pay envelope." "Indeed you are," Mr. Falco said as he looked at the ledger. "But, hold on a minute. I see here where you were overpaid two dollars last week. Why didn't you come running to me to tell me?" Richie smiled and said, "Sir, one mistake I can overlook but not two in a row!"

Folks, can you say "Abominable Snowman" without hesitation? Well, try saying it this way, "A-bom-in-a-bull." My Aunt Nora just told me, "The reason I don't have any trouble saying that word is because Woodchips has so many bombs in his jokes and bull in his stories."

I have a very smart Golden Retriever. I said to him, "What's on top of the house Kojack?" He barked out "Ruff-ruff!" ... Folks, my Aunt Nora just ran out of the room. Maybe she is going to check if there's a roof up there.... I love quotations attributed to Yogi Berra, Casey Stengel and Leo Durocher. Their language is known as "Fractured English." Yogi was asked, "Where were you born?" He replied, "Brooklyn." "What part?" "All of me!"

My sister, Maureen (the original spitfire) sometimes can't mind her own business. Watching a parade in Stoneham last summer, she shouted to a member of a bagpipe unit, "Hey! Anything 'worn' under those kilts?" "No!" he snapped back, "Everything is in brand-new working conditions."... An old Yankee motto -- "Use it up-wear it out-or do without!"

I remember my mother having a treadle type Singer Sewing Machine. One day a salesman came to the door and offered to give her $25 toward an electric model of another brand. I remember how she tried and tried to get her old Singer back. She missed the exercise the treadle type game her feet!

"ADULT NEW FAMILIES" DIVORCE GROUP

New England Memorial Hospital is offering a program to assist adults in coping with the stress of divorce.

The "Adult New Families" program addresses issues concerning former spouses, money, custody, fighting, parenting and joint-custody parenting, new relationships, dating, remarriage and child guidance. Groups are either all-women or coed.

Pregroup interviews are now being conducted for the 12-week program. The group may be covered by a participant's health insurance plan.

For more information, or to arrange for a pregroup interview call Dr. Mary Ellen DeBiase at (617) 979-7025.

"WORKING WOMAN, CARING PARENT"

Anna Kucharksi, M.D., on staff at The Malden Hospital, will present "Working Woman - Caring Parent (How Not To Do It All) on Thursday, January 27 at 7 p.m. in the Hospital's Auditorium.

Dr. Kucharksi will discuss how women can effectively manager professional and parenting responsibilities. In addition to stress management and coping skills, participants will learn self-care techniques to ensure women have their own needs met without shortchanging their parenting or work responsibilities.

The program is being offered as part of Health Matters, The Malden Hospital's series of community education programs. For information or to register, please call the Health Matters registration line at (617) 397-6000.

"FROM VIETNAM TO BAGHDAD"

"My Life as a War Correspondent: From Vietnam to Baghdad," a lecture by Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist Peter Arnett, will be presented at the Boston Public Library in Copley Square at 6 p.m. on Tuesday evening, February 1.

Arnett, CNN's "Voice from Baghdad" during Operation Desert Storm, will discuss his recently published book, Live from the Battlefield, which will be released in January by Simon & Shuster.

The program is part of an ongoing series, now in its 12th year, that is cosponsored by the Boston Public Library and the Massachusetts Historical Society. Copies of Mr. Arnett's book will be available for purchase and autographing following his lecture, which is free and open to the public. For additional information, please call the Boston Public Library at (617) 536-5400, Ext. 212.

CAMELLIA FESTIVAL AT LYMAN ESTATES

There is a moment in midwinter when the Lyman Estate Greenhouses burst into flower. Just when winter is bleakest, the Estate's century old Camellia House is clad in a blizzard of festive pastel-colored blossoms.

Come visit on Thursday through Sunday, February 3, 4 5 and 6, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. to celebrate the blossoming of these venerable camellia trees. Step back in time to an era of grandeur and profusion when tropicals were just beginning to enter this country. Wander through the antique estate greenhouses and admire the botanical collection of exotic plants from the far corners of the globe.

Come watch the camellia buds unfurl and return home with a rooted cutting propagated from the Estate's heirloom varieties. During the Camellia Festival, orchids, camellias, herbs, azaleas and many other winter blooming plants will be offered for sale.

On Saturday, February 5, the Federal mansion, built in 1793, will be open for tours from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission to the Greenhouses is free; tours of the mansion are $1 for adults, children under age 12 admitted free. All proceeds support the ongoing maintenance of the historic Lyman Estate Greenhouses.

To reach the Lyman Estate, take Route 128 to exit 27A (Totten Pond Road); follow Totten Pond Road to the end and bear right onto Lexington Street; at the next light take a left onto Beaver Street and drive in at the Estate sign at the rotary.

The Lyman Estate is owned and operated by The Society for the Preservations of New England Antiquities.

MINUTEMAN TECH OPEN HOUSE

Demonstrations of CD-ROM, lasers, robots, electronic imaging and accelerated learning will be featured at the Minuteman Tech Open House on Sunday, February 6 from noon to 4 p.m. Parents, young people and those who want to find out about Minuteman Tech's award winning programs for high school students and adults are invited to attend. (Snow date for the Open House is February 13.)

Open House visitors will also be able to visit the student-run Bakery, Gift Shop, Beauty Salon and Fife & Drum Grill and swim in the swimming pool.

Minuteman Tech High School is now accepting applications for September 1994. The Open House provides an opportunity for interested students and their parents to tour Minuteman Tech, meet the staff and obtain admissions information.

Minuteman Tech serves as the public technical high school for the towns of Acton, Arlington, Belmont, Bolton, Boxborough, Carlisle, Concord, Dover, Lexington, Lincoln, Needham, Stow, Sudbury, Wayland and Weston. High school students from Watertown, Waltham, Ayer, Somerville, Medford and many other cities and towns also attend Minuteman Tech for technical programs which are not available at their local high schools. Out-of-district students who wish to enter Minuteman Tech in September 1994 must file their applications by March 1.

Information will also be available about Minuteman Tech's Adult High School, Adult Education classes, technical training programs for adults, After School Courses for 6th, 7th and 8th graders, Summer School and Computer Camp.

Minuteman Tech is located in Lexington at the intersection of Route 2A (Marrett Rd.) and Massachusetts Ave., just west of Route 128. For information telephone (617) 861-7150.

GRAPHIC DESIGN COURSE FOR DESKTOP

North Shore Community College is offering Graphic Design for Desktop Publishers on Wednesdays from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Beverly Campus starting February 2.

Students will learn how to use basic design and production techniques to take publications from the concept stage to finished piece. For those who want to complement their computer skills with design and production know-how, the course is ideal.

Focus of the course will be on the use of type, color, photography and graphics with tips on production methods, how to select paper, specifying the job, and choosing a printing company.

For further information, call NSCC's Community Services Office at (617) 593-6722, Ext. 6625.

Professional Training Series of workshops on Wednesday, February 2. The workshop will be held in Beverly Hospital's Medical Arts Building from 12 noon to 1 p.m.

The featured presenter is Kenneth Minkoff, M.D., the Chief of Psychiatry at Choate Health Systems in Woburn. The cost is $3 and CEUs are available. To pre-register, call the Center for Addictive Behaviors at (508) 745-8890 (V/TTY).

HOMEMAKER-HOME HEALTH AIDE COURSE

Need short-term training for a new career offering plenty of jobs? North Shore Community College will offer two sections of the four-week course: "Homemaker - Home Health Aide - Prep Course for a New Career" this Winter/Spring semester at the Lynn Campus.

The courses, taught by Lynn Visiting Nurse Association (VNA) instructors, start January 31 and again on April 4. Each course will include two weeks of classroom instruction from 4 to 9 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, a week of lab work from 4 to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and, on the fourth week, a hands-on visit to nursing homes for two mornings from 7 a.m. to 12 noon. The cost is $159 and textbooks, which are $25, are purchased the first day of class.

ARTS LEXINGTON COURSE SCHEDULE

The Education Program at Arts Lexington is currently accepting registrations for its winter session which runs from January 31 until April 2. In addition to many regular skills development courses, the winter program has 18 totally new courses for all ages with flexible time options for busy schedules, a variety of exciting themes, and an opportunity to combine the visual and performing arts for all levels.

To receive a brochure listing all class details call Arts Lexington at (617) 863-5960 or 862-5506.

WALDORF SCHOOL HAS OPEN HOUSE

An Admissions, Open House at the Waldorf School in Lexington will be held Sunday, January 30, from 1 to 4 p.m. The Waldorf School in Lexington invites all to an Admissions Open House for the whole family.

Discover the fastest growing independent school system in the world. Come tour the school, meet teachers and parents.

Waldorf education has achieved international recognition over the past 70 years. The elementary school offers a classical curriculum of academics integrated with foreign languages, music, drama, art, sports and more.

In the Early Childhood program the children's imagination is nourished through nature and folk stories, simple natural materials, circle games, puppetry and songs.

Faculty members will present a brief introduction to Waldorf education and the Waldorf curriculum as well as short seminars on how various subjects are taught (for adults only). Children's activities will also be available in the kindergarten (ages 4-6) - beeswax modeling, carding wool, grinding grain. Child care available for all ages.

The Waldorf School is located at 739 Massachusetts Avenue, East Lexington. Call (617) 863-1062 (Susan Morris, Admissions Coordinator) for further information.

FESTIVAL CHORUS REHEARSES FOR CONCERT

The Wakefield Festival Chorus will begin rehearsals on Wednesday, January 26, for a performance of the oratorio "The Light of Life" by Edward Elgar. Rehearsals will be held at First Congregational Church in Wakefield every Wednesday evening at 8:30 until the performance which is scheduled for Sunday, May 1, at 7 p.m.

All singers from local communities are invited to join the choir. No auditions are required and music scores will be provided for a small fee.

The Wakefield Festival Chorus is one of the most active community choruses on the North Shore and has 60 singers participating in the group. Members of the chorus come from many different towns to participate including Melrose, Malden, Reading, Stoneham, Lynnfield, Danvers, Woburn and Wakefield. The chorus performs two major choral works and one Christmas concert each year.

All performances and rehearsals are held at First Parish Congregational Church, number one Church street in Wakefield on Lake Quannapowitt. All singers are welcome and invited to join for the rehearsals and performance of "The Light of Life." For further information call the church office at (617) 245-1539.

"TREASURE ISLAND" AT GRILL 93

The Children's Theater Restaurant will feature "Treasure Island" on Sunday, January 30, plus February 6 and 13 at 2 p.m. The Hampstead Players present this swashbuckling story of pirates, heroes, and villains through song and sword-play in this hour-long, audience interactive adaptation of Robert Louis Stevenson's classic.

Lunch and Show: $9.95 children, $13.95 adults. Show only: $8 adults, $6 children. For information call (508) 68-SHOWS (687-4697).

Wakefield company stirs up a storm since 1935

By KEN MAGUIRE

The way Richard Oedel tells the story of his company, Spir-it, Inc., it's easy to understand why it is the most successful of its kind worldwide.

The premise is simple. Find a way to help businesses bring back their customers, and they will pay you for it. Enter Spir-it, Inc. and just about every kind of coffee stirrer imaginable. That's right, coffee stirrers (aka swizzel sticks).

But not just any coffee stirrer. Richard Oedel produces the custom made ones. For instance, you might have dinner at a restaurant and enjoy a meal. On your way out, Oedel hopes that you liked the one-of-a-kind design of the coffee stirrer so much that you bring it home.

"We want to make it interesting enough so that you pick it up and bring it home with you," Oedel said from his Wakefield office. "The whole purpose of this is to reinforce the advertising message."

Hopefully with a few of the memorable coffee stirrers laying around the house, the person sees it every once in a while and maybe returns to the restaurant. The restaurant owner is happy, and Spir-it, Inc. continues to prosper.

It all started back in 1935. A local man named Jack Sindler was sitting in the Ritz bar one day stirring his drink with two fingers, Oedel explains. Instead of using fingers, Sindler thought, why not shave down a thin piece of wood to do the job.

The result was the swivel stick and Sindler patented it immediately. He took out a full-page advertisement in the New Yorker magazine and people bought his product. The rest, as they say, is history.

By about 1940 came the wonderful discovery of plastic, and it soon replaced wood as the primary ingredient in the swivel stick. As Oedel explains, wood was completely phased out by the 60s. Plastic, he said, was easier to work with and offered more to the customer.

"With plastic you can use more colors and more artwork, much better than you can in wood," he said. "In wood, you're limited to the color of the ink."

Today, wood is making a moderate comeback, but plastic still comprises about 90 percent of Spir-it's business. And considering its success, that's a lot of plastic. Oedel's clients include Swiss Air, KLM, Norwegian Cruise Line, the Chicago Cubs, McDonald's, just to name a few, not to mention other major restaurant chains around the globe.

With 135 employees and all sorts of heavy, intricate machinery (operated through a main computer system) on Lake Street in Wakefield, Spir-it is a self-sufficient operation. Any machine breakdowns are handled in-house by a fulltime maintenance staff. And breakdowns are common since the machines are used 24 hours per day on three shifts, five days per week.

"In this sort of business you have to keep the machines utilized," Oedel said. "It's a very capital intensive business." The building itself, 85,000 square feet total, is four stories tall and was formerly a mill before being converted in 1975.

Oedel and his father sold the company in the late 80s to a venture capital group that convinced Richard to stay on and run the show. Five years ago, he bought out the group and is now the sole owner. As for the future, he says he's happy with things for now.

"Anything can happen, but right now it's a nice stand alone business," Oedel said. "We've got a real good crew of people. Everybody's got a nickel in it. They're all in the profitsharing. If there are results, the employees see it, which is the way it should be."

On the subject of profits, Oedel said Spir-it strives to reach 10 or 11 percent real growth per year.

"From 1930 to 1980, we hit 10 percent (real growth) every year like clockwork," he said. "But there is the law of diminishing returns too." He said the company is still profitable but stressed that "we have fun doing it and that's important."

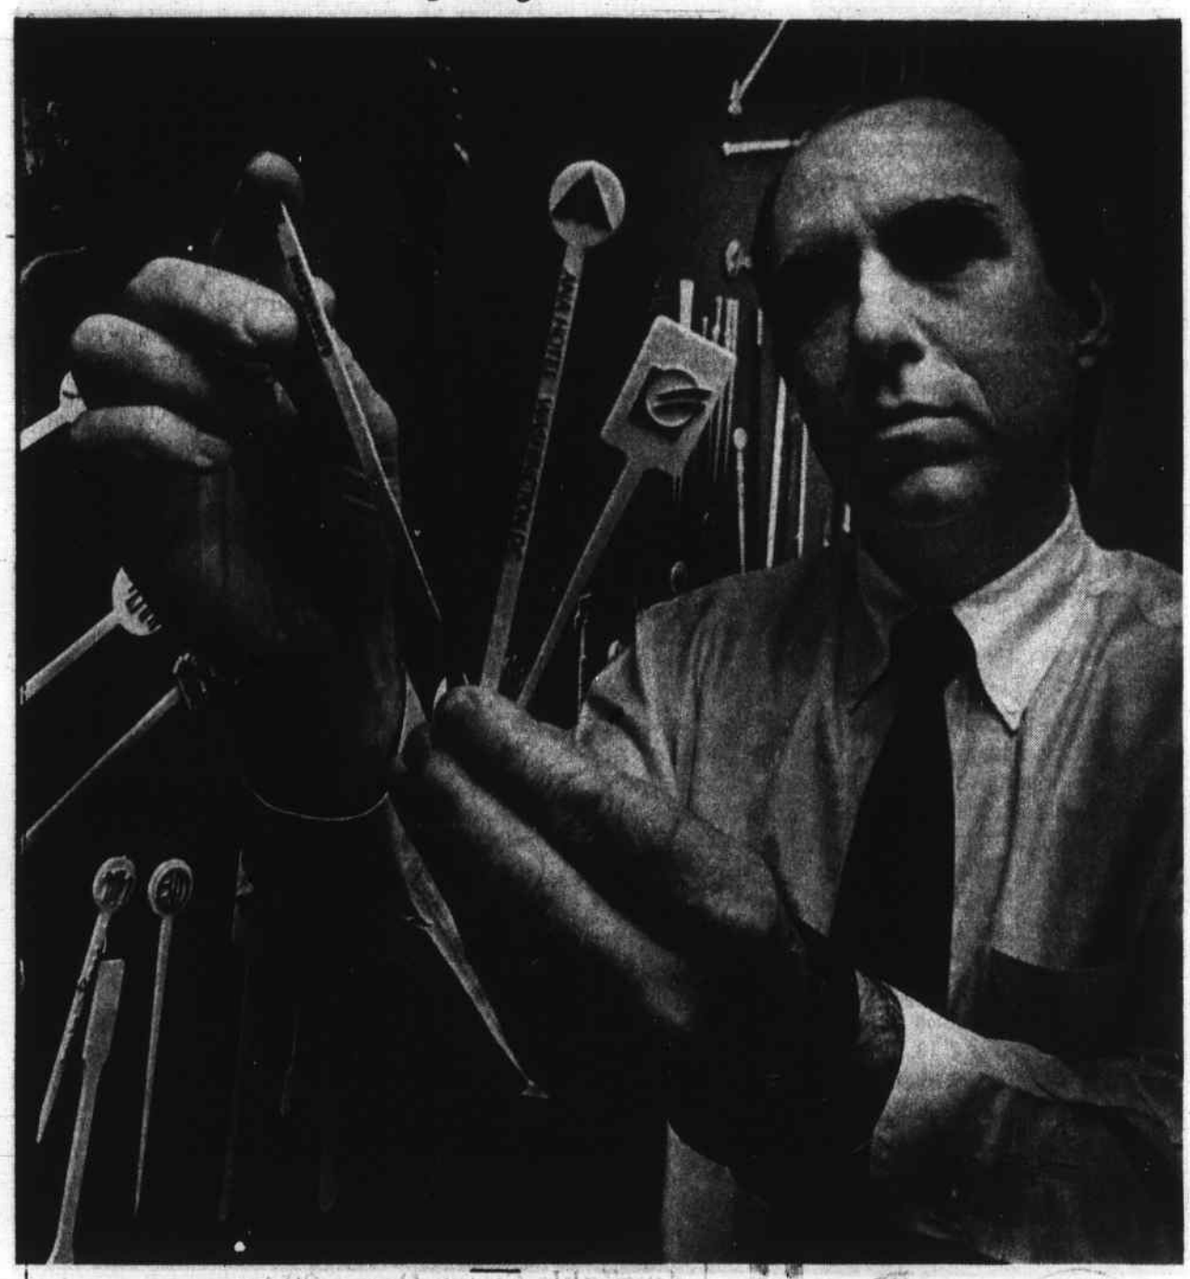

Spir-it sells its products per thousand and almost exclusively through distributors. Rarely does Spir-it send something from its warehouse directly to a customer's door. As for price, if you're looking to have a specialized stirrer for you're company or restaurant, a safe bet is count on about five cents per piece. Depending on the design, it could fluctuate up to 25 cents, or as low as one cent.

Like anything else, Spir-it has competition, but Oedel does not seem to be worried about that. "There's nobody out there who does it the way we do it," he said. "If you want the best in the world, you come to us. We just get a little better each day."

Every year, Oedel considers how to improve the company and often ponders acquisitions. However, these are few and far between because, as he says, "We try to stay focused if we can."

Oedel stays focused on the business end of things at Spir-it, but having a Master's degree in engineering (from the University of New Hampshire), he sometimes can't help himself. "Occasionally I get very hands-on and people would rather have me go back to my office, where I belong," he joked.

So check out that coffee stirrer the next time you're about to dispose of one. If it didn't catch your eye at first glance, maybe Spir-it should re-design it, but chances are, it's already in your pocket for the trip home.

Free wedding seminar at CrestView Plaza Woburn

There will be a free seminar at the Crest View Plaza, 36 Montvale Ave., Woburn, on Monday evening, January 31, at 7 p.m. The title of the seminar is "How to Plan Your Wedding," and is geared toward brides and grooms and their parents who will be involved in the wedding planning. Featured topics will include when to book the hall, church and other services, and will delve into package plans and how to get the most for the money.

Charlotte Guthrie, bridal consultant from Weddings by Charlotte of Wilmington will be conducting the seminar. She has 12 years experience in the wedding industry, having worked with and for many hotels, caterers and function facilities throughout the state.

Guest speaker Steve Dietch of the Party Spirit of Salisbury will share his expertise in tenting for outdoor receptions with those guests planning such events.

Weddings by Charlotte specializes in wedding package plans. Charlotte markets her own wedding packages as well as developing package plans for local caterers.

Refreshments will be served. For reservations and tickets call Charlotte at (508) 658-0763.

U.S. SAVINGS BONDS FOR EDUCATION GROW ALMOST AS FAST AS KIDS DO.

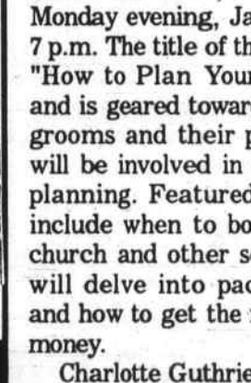

Is it ever too soon to start saving for college? U.S. Savings Bonds grow quickly, so they're an ideal way to save.

Buy Series EE U.S. Savings Bonds for half their face value. If you hold them five years or more, you'll earn competitive, market-based interest, compounded semiannually, with a guaranteed minimum return.

U.S. Savings Bonds are exempt from state and local income taxes, and they're federally tax-deferred. And if Bonds are used to pay for higher education, there may be an additional federal tax advantage.*

Buying U.S. Savings Bonds is easy. Buy them through your employer's U.S. Savings Bonds Payroll Savings Plan — or at your bank — every week, every month or every payday.

Take the first step to your child's higher education. Ask your employer or bank for the free booklet, "U.S. Savings Bonds for Education." Or write: U.S. Savings Bonds for Education, Department of the Treasury, Washington, DC 20226.

For current rate information, call 1-800-4US BOND • 1-800-487-2663

*This advantage is explained in a booklet entitled "U.S. Savings Bonds for Education," available from your payroll office, financial institution or the Department of the Treasury. Please read it thoroughly for information about income limits, registration and other restrictions before investing for this purpose.

Baseball Bats, Metal Detectors, Guns and Knives et al

Bats in Wakefield

Wakefield School Committee Chair William Skulley recently addressed the increasingly violent activity in the Wakefield schools, noting that the "urban violent culture" is present in Wakefield and suggesting the mobilization of local agencies and citizens, including students, to develop a public awareness program.

The suggestion came in the wake of a fight - involving bats, wooden mallets, martial arts, weapons, and a machete - between Wakefield High and Wakefield's Northeast Regional Metropolitan Vocational students.

"It is a delicate situation and some parents and citizens will not necessarily accept the environment," says Skulley in the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."We need to carefully inform people of the changing environment facing young students."

Metal in Medford

After a petition signed by 1,500 Medford Public School parents and by a 4-2 vote, the Medford School Committee has approved the use of hand-held metal detectors for all students in the school system - and could be the first Greater Boston area community to adopt such a policy, according to the "Daily News Mercury."

Last year's arrest of 15 Medford High students after a brawl contributed to the policy as did the reported seven incidents involving knives in the Medford Public Schools since May.

The proposal had been shot down last year.

Guns in Lexington

Lexington is dealing with the fact that guns were fired near youths twice in 11 days.

The first incident involved two 21-year-old Jamaica Plain men who fired a gun on the Lexington High campus near a group of students. The men had acquaintances at school: Lexington High students who reside in Lexington and those who reside in Boston. The police picked up the men but the gun is still missing.

The second incident involved a gunshot and a 16-year-old.

Security has been tightened at Lexington High which lost its security guard last year to budget cuts, despite protests from the principal, according to a Lexington paper. Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jeffrey Young has reinstated a security guard to patrol during the day and sent a letter - via students - to parents noting that "we now know that security is one budget item we can no longer afford to cut."

Lexington's Safe Schools Task Force, composed of school and police representatives, will prepare guidelines for Lexington's eight school councils so they can develop safety and security plans for their respective buildings.

Said one Lexington School Committee member, "A bullet is gender-, race- and politically neutral."

Counseling in Tewksbury

The Tewksbury Public Schools and Police Department along with Rape Crisis Services of Lowell recently presented a teen awareness program to students in grades eight through 12.

The program was facilitated by Tewksbury police officer Jerrilee Maille and rape crisis counselor Sharon Rettberg with the assistance and cooperation of the middle school grade eight team leader and staff; the high school humanities department chair and English teachers; and guidance counselors from both schools.

The program goal, according to the Tewksbury edition of the "Town Crier" is "to help teens become more aware and sensitive to the issues of rape and assault in our society and to reduce their vulnerability to assault by providing accurate information and teaching self-protective skills."

Student participation was voluntary.

Knives in Melrose

Last month in Melrose, seven youths walking on Main St. were accosted by a group of youths from Everett and Wakefield. One of the Melrose youths was stabbed seven times, and police recovered two buck knives and a baseball bat from the scene.

Boys (mostly) will be boys in Reading

Violence and mischief in Reading? Don't even ask.

At Melrose-Wakefield Hospital

Many health education courses

The following health education courses are now being offered by Melrose-Wakefield Hospital during the month of February.

Body in Balance - A health and exercise program designed for women in their fourth month of pregnancy or more. Meets every Monday and Wednesday from 6 to 7 p.m., beginning Wednesday, February 2, for four weeks. Meets at the Franklin Family Education Classroom. Fee: $40. Call (617) 979-3408 to register.

New Mothers Network - A free support group offered to new mothers with children up to the age of one. A lactation counselor provides advice on breastfeeding and a childbirth educator is available for questions and consultations. Meets every Wednesday from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Franklin Family Education Classroom. No registration.

CPR Adult Heart Saver - Offers important information on how to help others, and possibly save lives, in emergency situations. Either infant or child CPR is also included. Open to community members as well as health care professionals. Will meet on Saturday, February 26, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Franklin Family Education Classroom. Fee: $40. Call (617) 979-3408 to register.

Pediatric CPR - Offers important information on how an adult can help an injured child in situations such ad drowning, electrical shock, airway obstruction and choking and allergic reactions. Knowing how to respond quickly in these emergency situations could save the life of a child. Will be held on Fridays, February 4 and 11, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., or Fridays, February 18 and 25, also from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., at the Franklin Family Education Center. Fee: $40 per single; $70 per couple. Call (617) 979-3408 or 979-3515 to register.

VBAC Awareness - It's important to remember that the old rule, "Once a Cesarean, Always a Cesarean," is no longer true for many women. It is never too soon to start planning for the next pregnancy and the option of having a vaginal birth after Cesarean. This free support group answers questions and addresses concerns. Meets on Monday, February 28, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the third floor nurses' conference room. No registration.

Grief Support - A group by and for parents who have lost a baby/babies through miscarriage, stillbirth or early infant death. Meets on the third Wednesday of every month at 7 p.m. in the third floor education classroom. Free. No registration.

Maternity Tour - Tour the MWH Maternity Suite to fully prepare for delivery and recovery. Ask questions and meet the MWH health care professionals. There is no fee or registration. The next scheduled tour is Monday, February 28, at 8 p.m. Meets in the main lobby of MWH.

On Being a Sibling - Helps youngsters (and their parents) prepare to adjust to having a new baby in the home. Families are encouraged to attend together. Offers helpful tips to mom and dad too. Will meet on Monday, February 14, at 6:15 p.m. in Perkins Lecture hall. There is a $10 fee per family. Call (617) 979-3408 or 979-3515 to register.

Parents Club - "Parents Are People, Too - Lighten Up and Be Kind To Yourself." A stimulating discussion about parenting in the 90s, which can help parents feel more confident, in control and able to enjoy their children. Will meet Thursday, February 10, in the Perkins Lecture Hall, located on the first floor of MWH. Call (617) 979-3408.

Mom and Baby Exercise - Exercise program for new moms and their babies. Includes exercises for mom and stimulating play for babies. Will meet for four consecutive Saturdays, beginning Saturday, February 5, at the Franklin Family Education Classroom. Fee: $30. Call (617) 979-3408 to register.

From Pregnancy to Parenthood - Helps expectant moms and their partners learn more about pregnancy and childbirth. A series of childbirth education classes which covers such topics as: toning and conditioning exercises for pregnancy and postpartum; breathing techniques for labor; nutrition; anesthesia options for labor; and much more. Many starting dates are available for the month of February. Call (617) 979-3408 or 979-3515 for additional information and costs. A refresher course is also available for those couples who have already experienced pregnancy and childbirth.

Contemporary Art Exhibit at Museum of Fine Arts Boston

Playwright Tony Kushner, film director John Waters and 89-year-old artist Lois Mailou Jones will be three of a variety of people to write explanatory texts for the Label Show: Contemporary Art and the Museum.

The exhibition at the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, will explore issues relating to display and interpretation of contemporary art. Drawn from the permanent collection, The Label Show: Contemporary Art and the Museum will be in the MFA's Foster Gallery from February 12 through May 1.

Breaking traditional museum practice, the objects in this exhibition will be accompanied by multiple informational texts. The authors, including Museum staff, artists and critics, will all be identified. Usually museums present anonymous "curated" labels whose official tone may condition the viewer's first encounter with the art.

The objects in the exhibition will also be grouped thematically to highlight the kinds of categories that artists, collectors and curators often use to characterize artwork. For example, according to Fairbrother, it is both useful and limiting to categorize an object as "Women's Art" or "German Art." He contends that the labels and contexts that curators and art critics rely on often over-determine and control the meanings of art.

"The complexity of making contemporary art fit in an encyclopedic art museum will be the focus of the 'Label Show'," said Trevor Fairbrother, Beal Curator of Contemporary Art at the MFA and organizer of the exhibition. "The goal of this exhibition is to help visitors perceive the pigeonholes that museums use to define, install and interpret contemporary art. In fact the show may produce educated consumers of all museum fare, not just contemporary art."

New parties on the block

In 1856, two new parties fielded candidates for the presidential election. The American Party, also known as the Know-Nothings, had reached its peak in 1854 and was disintegrating due to the slavery issue. The other party, the Republican Party, was strongest in the North and West, and also among anti-slavery forces. The prevalent issue of the campaign was the fight between slavery and anti-slavery forces for control of the Kansas territory.

MANAGING YOUR MONEY

Tips For Earning Free Airline Travel Faster

(NAPS)—Did you know you can earn free airline travel just by charging purchases with a credit card? Airline affinity cards are credit cards that are linked to an airline frequent flyer program. Purchases on such cards earn mileage credits—typically at the rate of one mile for every $1 that is charged—which can be redeemed for free travel. Mileage can also be earned by flying on the affiliated airline.

One of the best examples of such cards is the new Chase Manhattan/British Airways VISA card designed specially for travelers. Each time a purchase is made with the card, mileage credits are given in the British Airways Executive Club frequent flyer program. Unlike other affinity cards, the Chase/British Airways program allows mileage earned by different members of the same household to be credited to one Executive Club account. This means you and your spouse or significant other can maintain separate credit card accounts but combine the mileage earned. Mileage builds faster and thus free travel can be earned more quickly. This card also allows mileage to be earned by flying not only on British Airways but also on USAir and Alaska Airlines, by staying at participating hotels, by renting a car from Hertz or by using currency exchange at Travelex. Free awards are good for both domestic and international travel on those airlines as well as on American Airlines.

Mileage credits build rapidly when regular household expenses, such as groceries, are put on an airline affinity credit card.

With the prospect of earning free airline travel, it makes sense for holders of airline affinity credit cards to use them as much as possible. Mileage credits can build very quickly when regular household expenses that are typically paid for by check or with cash, such as groceries, are instead put on a card. It's even worthwhile to use such cards for very small purchases as they too will add to the mileage account.

For more information on the Chase/British Airways VISA card, call 1-800-AT-CHASE.

Homing pigeons have been known to fly more than 1,000 miles in two days.

WOMEN OVER 40 OFF TO HAWAII

Outdoor Vacations for Women over 40 has scheduled a two-week vacation on three Hawaiian islands (Kauai, Maui and Hawaii) April 9-23. Kauai is the first stop.

Vacationers will hike along the cliffs of Na Pali Coast, snorkel at Ke'e Lagoon, visit the Kilauea National Wildlife Refuge, drive along Waimea "the Grand Canyon of the Pacific," and hike through an Ohia cloud forest and a Koa dry land forest along the Awaawapuhi Ridge Trail.

On to Maui to tramp through towering bamboo stands and a lush tropical rainforest to Waimoku Falls, swim, snorkel and explore the black sand beach at Waianapanapa Park, ascend the slopes of Haleakala Volcano, and hike eight miles into and out of the jaws of the world's largest crater.

Hawaii is the last stop where the group will ascend Kilauea, the world's most active volcano and home of Pele (Hawaii's Fire Goddess). Visit Volcanoes National Park to hike into a steaming crater -- frequent tremors and acrid fumes attest to the barely contained magma just below the crater floor. Visit Puu Honua O Honaunau, the southernmost tip of the US.

Enjoy a sail on a trimaran to Kealakekua Bay Marine Preserve and last but not least enjoy a farewell luau. Inquiry deadline is February 11. Limited to 13 participants. For more information contact Marion Stoddart at (508) 448-3331 or write Outdoor Vacations, P.O. Box 200, Groton, MA 01450.

WINTER SAILING '94 LECTURE SERIES

Rich Wilson, the skipper of the record-breaking trimaran Great American II, will present "San Francisco to Boston aboard Great American II." Come listen as Rich details the stunning double capsize of Great America II, in force 12 winds and 65 foot seas at Cape Horn on Thanksgiving Day 1990 and the daring nighttime rescue by the containership New Zealand Pacific.

Accompanying the lecture will be a 10-minute video including NBC news and local San Francisco TV station coverage.

This lecture takes place Wednesday, February 9 at 6 p.m. at Community Boating, Inc., 21 Embankment Rd., Boston. Tickets are $10 for non-members, $8 for members. Parking included in all prices.

The boathouse is located on the Esplanade at the Charles Street MBTA station on the red-line. For more information call (617) 523-1038. Lecture series is co-sponsored by L.J. Harri, 120 Lewis Wharf, Boston, purveyors of charts and nautical books since 1730.

MOVIES

"Intersection", Short Takes

by Rochelle Flynn

"Intersection" Starring Richard Gere, Sharon Stone, Lolita Davidovich. Directed by Mark Rydell. Screenplay by David Rayfiel, Marshall Brickman. Produced by Bud Yorkin, Rydell. Rated R.

Self-indulgent Yuppie angst is the core to "Intersection," a movie with the one redeeming factor of starring three very attractive actors. That one of them, Lolita Davidovich, also turns out a convincing performance doesn't matter much, because this movie is too hollow at its core to be anything but a trite romantic triangle.

Richard Gere plays a wealthy, handsome architect with a fabulously gorgeous wife (Sharon Stone) who is also his partner in his extremely successful business. They have a beautiful, intelligent and talented daughter and live in a huge, tastefully decorated home. He drives an expensive sports car and has an equally attractive mistress (Lolita Davidovich).

So what's the problem? Gere's wife is aloof. She's a workaholic and doesn't understand him. Yet he can't really pull away enough to fully commit to Davidovich. He leaves his car at Stoneh's house, and sleeps at Davidovich's. That's it - the entire dull movie in a nutshell.

Academy Award-winning cinematographer Vilmos Zsigmond captured the harsh beauty of the Pacific Northwest. In fact, this film looks perfect. The problem is that director Mark Rydell invested this story with all the emotional resonance of an insurance ad. You can't feel sorry for Gere. His character's life is actually something to envy. And his acting is over-the-top and none-too-convincing, as if Gere thought this guy's life wasn't so bad either.

Stone's performance is too chilly and economical, but her part was underwritten to begin with. Oddly enough, Davidovich's role as the spunky, journalist mistress is even more sketchy than Stone's but she does more with the part. She is the most real of these three characters, yet you learn so little of her relationship with Gere, you wonder what all the fuss is about. You know that Davidovich has reawakened a passion in Gere, but you know it through her performance, not his.

If the movie had been written with more of a plot, or more of an emotional investment, we might have cared what happened to these three handsome, talented and wealthy people. Even the ending, which is supposed to be the Big Dramatic Moment, is a slick-looking let down, because all the pieces fall so easily into place. It's almost enough to make you want to take a nap.

Philadelphia is the long-awaited Hollywood movie about AIDS that covers the hatred, paranoia and ignorance surrounding the disease by personalizing it. Tom Hanks is the lawyer fired from a powerful firm when it's discovered he is sick. Denzel Washington is the homophobic lawyer who goes to bat for him. Director Jonathan Demme tries to cover a bit too much ground. Still, this packs an emotional punch that will leave you reeling, and Hanks has never been better. Rated PG-13.  1/2

Shadowlands is based on the actual love affair between C.S. Lewis and poet Joy Gresham. Anthony Hopkins is the repressed, insulated English writer who finds an immeasurable, if short-lived happiness with the American divorcee, played with wit and spirit by Debra Winger. Not only does director Richard Attenborough make you feel their love and their pain, but the writing is top-notch. Rarely does a movie work on such an esthetic, emotional and intellectual level. Rated PG. ****

The Piano is a remarkable, sensitive and insightful film starring Holly Hunter as a mute Scottish women who travels with her daughter to New Zealand for an arranged marriage. She finds prosperity in the house of her new husband, Sam Neill, but passion in the arms of half wild Harvey Keitel. A brilliant and heart-wrenching story of desire, repression and suppression, it may be best remembered for Hunter's silent, compelling performance as a 19th century woman trying to find her own voice. Rated R. ****

The Air Up There stars Kevin Bacon as a motor-mouthed, assistant basketball coach who follows a long shot of a lead to Africa in the hopes of finding a star for his college team. Not only does he find the charismatic and talented Charles Gitonga Maina, but he learns a few life lessons along the way. The movie dribbles predictability across the screen, but it is also winsome and well acted. Rated PG. ***

Tombstone so wants to have the last word about the Gunfight at the O.K. Corral, but lacks the depth to be anything more than an overly long period sketch. Diehard western fans will certainly enjoy the look of this violent oater, and Val Kilmer's enigmatic Doc Holiday is truly memorable, but this is a no brainer. It's both aesthetically pleasing and convincingly performed, but can't hold us as the action dissolves into a melodramatic horse opera. Rated R. **

Grumpy Old Men is a strained romantic comedy featuring Ann-Margaret as an eccentric widow who brings out a juvenile competition between cantankerous neighbors Jack Lemmon and Walter Matthau. It is not funny or heartwarming to watch a couple of elderly men hurl insults at each other. There is a lot of wasted talent in this gooey vehicle, not the least of which is Ossie Davis as a dignified old charmer, or Daryl Hannah as Lemmon's unhappily married daughter. Rated PG-13. * 1/2

The Pelican Brief features a believable Julia Roberts as a terrified law student whose life is endangered when she pieces together the conspiracy of two assassinated Supreme Court Justices. The fun here is in the chase. That and the chemistry between Roberts and Denzel Washington's investigative reporter hoping to crack a scandal of Watergate magnitude. The adaptation of John Grisham's churning thriller is rather watery, but you can't help being caught up in the action once this game is afoot. Rated PG-13. ***

Mrs. Doubtfire is an extremely enjoyable, frothy little comedy that owes its success to Robin Williams' inimitable performance. In order to see his children on a daily basis, divorced dad Williams disguises himself as the perfect British nanny. Though the slapstick element is over the top, Williams' physical comedy and mimicry is both masterful and uproariously funny. It also makes a strong statement about the real meaning of family values. Rated PG-13. ***

The Remains of the Day is a picture-perfect offering at the altar of repression and propriety. A Merchant-Ivory period production based on Kazuo Ishiguro's novel, it stars Anthony Hopkins as a restrained butler whose response to Emma Thompson's spirited housekeeper is to grab tighter to his own rigid moral code. Visually stunning and packed with fraught emotion, the joy can sometimes catch a stiff upper lip quivering with despair. Hopkins and Thompson may just find themselves again nominated for Oscars. Rated PG. ****

"M.E.'s for You"

Moscow Synagogue Chorus in Boston February 12th

The Moscow Synagogue Chorus will perform in Jordan Hall at New England Conservatory in its only Boston engagement on Saturday, February 12 at 8 p.m.

Founded in 1989 in the wake of historic political and social change, the Moscow Synagogue Chorus was created to represent the newly-established Moscow Cantorial School. This 18-member a capella group of tenors, baritones and basses has been a vehicle throughout Russia and the world for renewed interest in Jewish heritage.

The members of the Moscow Synagogue Chorus have trained at the world-renowned Moscow Conservatory. The charismatic conductor, 34-year-old Misha Touretsky, holds doctorates in orchestral and choral conducting. He has assembled 18 meticulously-trained voices, any one of which is capable of stepping out from the chorus to deliver an accomplished solo. Touretsky's dramatic and precise conducting evokes compelling, spiritual performances.

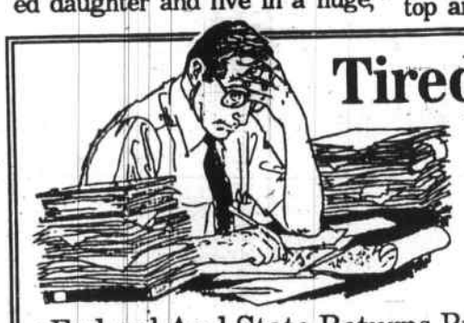

For information about the New England premier of the Moscow Synagogue Chorus, call Sound World Promotions at (617) 491-1828. Tickets can be purchased for $12.50 by calling the Jordan Hall box office at (617) 536-2412. Patron tickets are $50 and include a pre-concert lecture by Dr. Marshall Goldman of the Russian Studies Institute at Harvard University and Dr. Joshua Jacobson of the Music Department at Northeastern University.

Masters singers do Rogers and Hart

On Friday and Saturday, January 28th and 29th, at 8 p.m. the Master Singers will present "My Funny Valentine: The songs of Rodgers and Hart."

The program has James Olesen conducting the Master Singers' annual Pops concert, this year featuring the songs of Rodgers and Hart. Selections include such favorites as "With a Song in My Heart," "My Heart Stood Still," "Bewitched, Bothered and Bewildered," "Blue Moon," and "Babes in Arms."

Tickets are $14 for general admission; $12 students and senior citizens. Advance tickets available from Lexington Ticket Center, 1666 Massachusetts Avenue, Lexington, (617) 862-5333. Remaining tickets will be sold at the door. For information call (617) 862-6459.
